"Tush! my good lord, this superficial tale is but a preface!"

The Moroccan armistice hits a snag—a Riff, so to speak, in the loot.

Dr. White makes the astounding disclosure that half of the inmates of St. Elizabeth's—the Government Hospital for the Insane—have never been committed there by a court of competent jurisdiction, and here we had been fondly believing that the lettre de cachet went out of style with the fall of the Bastille.

My neighbor plays the slide trombone.

And keeps up a great racket—
I'll have him in a dungeon through, and put in a strait-jacket.

Miss Sophie Irene Butinski's distinguished proxy fails to convince the mothers of Washington that New York knows more about running our affairs than we do.

The Italian debt settlement is ratified by the Senate and all we have to do now is to collect the money.

Well, this ought to be pretty conclusive evidence of world peace—
Jack Dempsey agrees to fight.

It seems that Lord Birkenhead loses a $35,000,000 fortune by a whisker.

Only five of 400 troops comprising the cabinet office guard in Peking escape a cold-blooded massacre, and now up-to-date China has an Alamo to remember.

If the membership of the D. A.
R. does pass the 1,000,000 mark, the Willard will certainly have to build an annex to Peacock Alley.

But isn't a jail sentence at hard labor for Charles Ponzi unconstitutional, as being "cruel and unusual" punishment?

A poorly-trained stork with a potential Queen in its bill makes King George so agitated at 2:40
a. m. that he gets up and brews himself a pot of tea. It has been some time since England was ruled by an Elizabeth, and if anything should happen to the Duke of York, or the Prince of Wales should buy a new horse, or something, we might witness a return to "Good Queen Bess' days."

The malaria germ, the American Medical Association is informed, is an effective cure for paresis, but who would swap it for malaria?

"My whistone house my castle is,
I have my own four walls."

Senator Harrell can't understand why a man's private home could not be searched for unlawful liquor, but Sir Edward Coke was probably a little better lawyer. "The house of every one is to him as his castle and fortress."

Denver African expedition scientist reports that the pygmy bushmen found are "the lowest existent form of humanity." He forgets the anonymous letter-writer.

Another year from now we'll probably be hearing that the bottom has dropped out of the North Pole boom.

The city council of Chicago passes a resolution asking Congress to modify the Volstead act and Mayor Dever takes the train for Washington to defend the city's good name before the Senate committee, but is this cause and effect or effect and cause?

Mussolini's critics are trying to make out that he's the author of that old riddle about the "con-stantation of Africa, the downfall of Turkey, and the spilling of Greece," but not even Senator Mc-Kellar has yet blamed him for the breaking up of China.

Kansas University star attempts a post-graduate course in an alleged New York luncheon holdup, but flunks on the first examination.

On a throne between the Colosseum and the Arch of Constantine, fronting the Via di San Gregorio, the gateway which those who have traveled down the Appian Way will recall, Benito Augustus sets himself up like Caesar on an imperial throne, and the Eternal City celebrates the renaissance of the Roman Empire, while Vice President Victor Emmanuel lays a corner stone. It is like Mussolini to have taken his majestic stand beneath that famous inscription, "This arch famous for its triumphs," but when will the fascist reliefs be carved there beside the others?

The stuffing is scared out of Turkey as she suspects that the new Emperor is about to pass his plate for a drumstick or a little of the white meat.

ITALIAN DEBT PACT RATIFIED BY SENATE; REED HALTS ACTION

Reconsideration Asked to Study Amendment
by Howell.

FESS WILL PRESS
FOR BALLOT TODAY

Indications Are No Material Change Will Be Ordered as Vote Was 54 to 33.

By ALBERT W. FOX.
The $2,042,000,000 Italian debt settlement was ratified by the Senate by a vote of 54 to 33 yesterday afternoon, but the last-ditch opposition was so pronounced that a motion to reconsider the vote is now pending.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, voted for the settlement and then made a motion to reconsider. He declared that the Senate had not had ample time to consider an amendment offered by Senator Howell, providing for an arrangement whereby bonds would be issued by the Italian government in connection with Italy's annual payments. This amendment was beaten, 55 to 22, with Senator Reed voting against it so he could move to reconsider. Senator Borah's motion to reconsider the bill to the Senate finance committee had previously been defeated, 54 to 33.

Senator Fess moved to lay Senator Reed's motion to reconsider on the table, but later withdrew it after sharp debate, during which the practice of tabling motions was assailed by Senator Robinson, the minority leader, and Senator Borah.

Threat From Borah.
Mr. Borah threatened to prevent any future unanimous consent agreements as to the time for a vote if the tabling motion prevailed and he added that in all his experience as a senator he had an unbroken record of invariably opposing this practice.

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, later called attention to the fact that Senator Borah had voted to table the vote on the nomination of Charles B. Warren for Attorney General after Senator Walsh had moved to table and thereby followed the very practice which Senator
Robinson denounced as unfair.

Senator Wadsworth later read into the record the fact that Mr. Borah had voted to table the motion which Mr. Robinson had made to reconsider the vote defeating ratification of the Versailles treaty.

Senator Borah was not in the chamber when these ghosts of the past were brought up nor was Senator Walsh present.

Mr. Fess withdrew his motion at the suggestion of Senator Curtis, the majority leader. Later, however, Senator Fess announced that if Mr. Reed's motion to reconsider was not pressed at once today he would reserve the right to move to table it. He has two days in which to make the tabling motion.

Because of the decisive character of the vote, it is not expected that reconsideration of the vote will

Alaska Sandstorm
Causes Shipwreck

Cordova, Alaska, April 21 (By A. P.).—A sandstorm at sea caused the loss of the cannery tender Uncle John, which was wrecked at Dry Bay, Alaska, 25 miles southeast of here, declared the ship's master, Capt. Ludwig Torgersen, who has arrived here.

Torgersen said that the vessel, seeking shelter in a gale, encountered dense clouds of sand over the water, caused by an offshore wind. The tender grounded on a bar in Dry Bay. Torgersen said the vessel was practically buried under sand three days later.

Destroyer Sailor Dies
Retrieving Baseball

Special to The Washington Post.
St. George, N. Y., April 21.—James B. Gleason, of the destroyer Henley, attached to the coast guard base No. 2, Staten Island, gave his life for a baseball this morning. Crews of various destroyers were practicing baseball on the $1,000,000 pier at Clifton, which is 1,400 feet long. One of the men batted the ball over Gleason's head, far out into the bay. Gleason plunged into the icy water. He had seized the ball when he was seized by a cramp. A half dozen plunged in to aid, but Gleason sank.

Turks Ask London, Paris, For Curb Upon Mussolini

English, Secretly Glad, Advise Angora to Join League.
French Seeking to Reap Diplomatic Profit, Get Yugoslav Aid.

(Special Cable Dispatch.)
London, April 21.—"We may not like Premier Mussolini's methods, but, at any rate, he has put the fear of God into the Turks."
This is a rough paraphrase of the British attitude toward Premier Mussolini's rumored agreement with Greece to partition Turkey, and, while it does not mean approval or even benevolent neutrality, it indicates the hope that something good for Great Britain may be gained by the development of the new situation.

As a matter of fact, this already has happened. The Turks have had the first real scare of their lives, and during the last two or three days Shervit Pasha, Turkish charge d'affaires in London, has been haunting the foreign office, imploring the British for protection against the Italo-Greek bogey man.
It would not be fair to say that he has been coldly received, but there has not been a very evident disposition to jump into the defense of a nation which a few months ago threatened war against Great Britain. Now the Turks are offering Mosul or anything Great Britain wants if it only will protect Turkey.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, the correspondent understands, has caused to be conveyed to the Turks word that if they want real protection they must join the League of Nations at the earliest possible moment, when they will have the full force of European civilization behind them in case of an unprovoked attack.

FRENCH DEBT FUNDING AGREEMENT REACHED HERE

Briand Announces Accord in Principle; Expects Definite Pact Soon.

SAFEGUARD CLAUSE OUT

Paris, April 21 (By A. P.).—Premier Briand has informed the foreign affairs committee of the Senate that an agreement has been reached in principle between Andrew W. Mellon, American Secretary of Treasury, and M. Berenger, French Ambassador to the United States, for the funding of France's debt to the United States. He said that a definite agreement would soon be signed.

By the terms agreed upon, commercial and political debts would be merged and France would pay annuities, beginning at $25,000,000 and rising to $100,000,000, until 62 years have elapsed, which would be the limit for payment.

While the "safeguard" clause is to be abandoned, France's capacity to pay at any time in the future might be revised on the basis of the amount it was possible to collect from Germany. The relinquishment of the safeguard clause aroused vehement protest from a number of senators but no vote was taken since the foreign affairs committee did not have the text of the agreement. The committee will make a pronouncement when the bill ratifying the debt settlement accord comes before it.

The safeguard clause had to do with France's ability to meet payments agreed upon in case Germany should default on her reparation payments.

DANZIG THREATENED
BY ITALIAN CONSUL

Will Take Measures if City
Senate Does Not Halt Socialist Paper.

Berlin, April 21 (By A. P.).—Tageblatt advises from Danzig that the press and public are aroused by a protest from the Italian consul general to the senate against caustic attacks on Mussolini by the socialist daily, the Danziger Volksteme. The consul has threatened that unless such attacks are suppressed he is empowered to take measures "which might have unfortunate consequences."

The senate replied that there is no law restraining the press. The whole press denounces the attempt "to muzzle opinion outside of Italy."

Brussels, April 21 (By A. P.).—Belgium appears to be threatened with a diplomatic incident. This has arisen out of the parading and burning of a dummy with a bandaged nose, supposed to represent Mussolini at an antifascist demonstration.

The newspapers say the Italian Ambassador has been summoned to Rome by Mussolini, and the Belgian government has expressed regret to the Ambassador.

Officers Fire Home,
Burn Alleged Slayer

Fayetteville, Ga., April 21 (By A. P.).—Barricaded in his home to resist arrest on charges of murder, Clint Brown, 60, farmer, was burned to death tonight when officers set fire to the dwelling in an effort to drive him out.

PIN, PIERCED IN FINGER, IS PULLED FROM THROAT

Baby, at Point of Death, Is Saved After Medical Instruments Fail.

PULSE STOPS; RESTORED

When medical instruments failed to dislodge an open safety pin in the windpipe of 10-month-old Albert
Mack, Jr., of 221 B street northeast,
Dr. Joseph Larkin, of Casualty hospital, yesterday afternoon pushed his finger down the boy's throat, hooked the point of the pin in his flesh and removed it.

The baby was close to death when his mother took him into the hospital, physicians said. Dr. Larkin probed for the pin, but was unable to dislodge it because it had opened.
Realizing that the baby had but a few minutes to live unless the pin was removed, Dr. Larkin laid aside his instruments and used his finger.
Pressing another finger hard against the side of the baby's windpipe, so the pin point would hold in his finger, Dr. Larkin finally worked it to the surface, just as the baby's pulse stopped beating.

Quick respiration treatment was given and the baby began breathing.
After first aid treatment the baby was able to go home with his mother.

Gas Explosion Burns
5 School Children

Holdenville, Okla., April 21 (By A. P.).—Five school children, ranging in ages from 5 to 10, were burned severely in a gas explosion at the Benedict district school near here today. They were taken to a hospital at Shawnee, where physicians declared that the recovery of four of them was doubtful.

All of the victims were boys.
They had gone down into the school cellar to spin tops. One of them placed a match on the floor as a target. When a top struck the match the whole cellar appeared to burst into flames.

Phi Beta Kappa Honor Likely for Coolidge

President Coolidge probably will be initiated into the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity here on May 17.
Disclosure of the impending initiation came yesterday when Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, called at the White House and saw the President. Although the Senator refused to go into details, he admitted he had called to invite President Coolidge to attend the initiation "of a very prominent citizen."

HARMONY PREVAILS AS D. A. R. CONGRESS NAMES CANDIDATES

Mrs. J. M. Beavers and Mrs. Eli A. Helmick Nominated.

MRS. A. H. BROSSAU
CHOSEN AS PRESIDENT

Election Will Be Held Today.
Coolidges Receive Delegates at White House.

Harmony and unity of purpose featured the nomination of prominent American women for national offices in the thirty-fifth continental congress of the D. A. R. held in the auditorium last night.

As a result of the withdrawal on Tuesday of Mrs. Charles White Nash, State regent of New York, as candidate for president general only one ticket was placed in the field headed by Mrs. Alfred H. Brosseau, of Detroit, and Greenwich, Conn.

The election of Mrs. Brosseau and her associates on the ticket today is assured and it is probable that the results of the ballot will be known by night.

Ovation for Mrs. Brosseau.

Mrs. Brosseau was placed in nomination by Mrs. Charles H. Bissell, State regent of Connecticut, and seconded by Mrs. Victor Sey-del, State regent of Michigan. Mrs.
Brosseau was then presented to the audience and received an ovation lasting for several minutes and she was presented with many bouquets.
Mr. Brosseau, who was in a stage box, was also introduced to the audience by Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, the president general, and so were the husbands of several other candidates, including Maj.
Gen. Eli A. Helmick, the Director of the Budget, Herbert M. Lord, and Representative Adams Wyant, of Pennsylvania.

The only contest is on the question of who will be selected as vice presidents general, as there are only seven vacancies in that post and more than that number of candidates have been nominated.

List of Candidates.

The complete list of candidates follows: President general, Mrs.
Alfred Brosseau, Connecticut; chaplain general, Mrs. Matthew Brewster, Louisiana; recording secretary general, Mrs. Samuel Williams Earle, Illinois; organizing secretary general, Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, Ohio; treasurer general, Mrs. Adam Wyant, Pennsylvania; corresponding secretary general, Mrs. Herbert
M. Lord, Maine; registrar general, Mrs. Eli A. Helmick, District of Columbia; historian general, Miss Alice Louise McDuffee, Michigan; reporter general to the Smithsonian institution, Mrs. Gerald Livingston Schuyler, Colorado; librarian general, Mrs. Horace M. Farnham, Vermont; curator general, Mrs. J.
S. Freelinghuysen, New Jersey.

Vice presidents general: Mrs.
Eugene H. Ray, of Kentucky; Mrs.
John Brown Heron, of Pennsylvania; Mrs. Charles Reed Banks, of New Jersey; Mrs. W. O. Spencer, of North Carolina; Mrs. B. G.
W. Cushman, of Maine; Mrs. Lyman Stokey, of California; Mrs. Harry Hymann, of Texas; Mrs. George H.
Warren, of New Hampshire; Mrs.
John M. Beavers, of District of Columbia; Mrs. Frank Felter, of Indiana; Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, of Georgia; Mrs. Edgar Henry Loy-hed, of Minnesota.

Honorary vice president general:
Mrs. John Campbell, of Colorado.
Two thousand daughters of the American Revolution were received at the White House yesterday afternoon by President and

REED-WHEELER TILT WILL END DRY LAW HEARING IN SENATE

Both Sides Are Given
Three Hours' Time Extension.

AUTO, REALTY SALES
CITED AS BENEFITS

U. S. Attorney at Cleveland Believes Proper Enforcement Would Pay Own Way.

With the prohibition battle before the Senate committee reaching its final hours, interest has become focused on the impending clash between Senator Reed and Wayne B.
Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, who is scheduled to take the stand as the dry's last witness.

Mr. Wheeler said yesterday, after the hearing, that he would take the stand, thereby discounting the reports that he would not submit to Senator Reed's cross-examination.
The drys had only one hour and 13 minutes of time left at noon yesterday, but they had put in appeal for more time and the dry members of the committee met in executive session late yesterday afternoon and decided to give them three hours extension. The other side also is given three hours to sum up, but it is not clear whether the two and a half hours still remaining to the modificationists is to be canceled.

Sensor Reed was not present at the executive session, and arrangements were agreed upon whereby the drys may get the final innings, in which case the exact hour of Mr.
Wheeler's taking the stand will be problematical.

Walsh to Be Absent.

Sensor Walsh explained to the committee yesterday that he would be compelled to leave the city and could attend no further hearings.
Senator Reed was not present at the hearing yesterday. The testimony was along the line heretofore presented.

Oliver W. Stewart, of Chicago, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation of Indianapolis, an organization working for civic betterment, was the first witness.

commodities," he said, "the widespread demand for better homes,

HEAVY TEXAS RAINS COST THE LIVES OF 6

Gov. Ferguson's Train Is Held Up by Cloudburst;
Bolts Kill 3.

Dallas, Tex., April 21 (By A. P.).

Heavy rainstorms tonight had brought an acute flood situation in southwest and central Texas, claimed six lives and caused extensive property damage.

A cloudburst descended west of Phelps late today after abnormally heavy rainfall. Twelve inches of water poured down within a brief period. The International Great Northern railroad tracks were covered, stranding Gov. Miriam Fer-guson's party en route to Houston.

Lightning was responsible for three deaths. The victims were T.
N. Rutherford, of Big Springs; J.
H. Burroughs, Lubbock business man, and a negro boy at Crockett.

Little McMahan was drowned near Dale when his motor car was caught in a creek. Two children were swept to their death in a flooded gulch near Sweetwater.

Gas to Heat Homes
Or Keep Them Cool

New York, April 21 (By A. P.).
Gas-cooled houses, kept at an even temperature by gas heat in the winter and gas refrigeration in summer, were pictured as an imminent possibility by 60 experts meeting today at the Consolidated Gas Co.
A combination gas furnace and refrigerator will be installed in a model home to make the first tests.

Two Officers Missing
On Flight to Madeira

Lisbon, Portugal, April 21 (By A.
P.).—Great anxiety is felt here as to the fate of Naval Lieutenants Moreira and Nevestieriera, who left Lisbon yesterday on a flight to Madeira and the Azores. They are long overdue at the islands and searching warships have found no trace of their plane. It is feared the machine foundered at sea.

MISS WILSON OPPOSES CAPPER'S PENSION BILL

Declares to Meeting Here Measure Is Degrading to Workers.

APPROVE NEW YORK PLAN

Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of America's war President, was the central figure at a tumultuous meeting in the Mayflower hotel last night, called to discuss mothers' sensation legislation.

The meeting resolved itself into a spirited wrangle over the kind of pension bill wanted here—the Keller bill, or the one known as the New York bill.

At the close a resolution favoring the New York bill was adopted amid much confusion and by a divided vote. The meeting, which was sponsored by the Child Welfare Committee of America, was presided over by Harry D. Murray, an attorney.

Miss Wilson, who is vice president of the Child Welfare Committee of America, which is sponsoring the "New York bill," made an ardent plea for support of that bill, using gestures and words that reminded the audience of her famous father. She then gracefully answered questions that were addressed to her from the audience.

The Keller bill, Miss Wilson said, would place the administrations of pensions of destitute mothers under the board of public welfare, which also has jurisdiction over hospitals, criminal institutions and institutions for the delinquent and delinquent.
The bill sponsored by Sophie Irene Loeb, of the child welfare committee, she said, would place the administration of the pensions under a separate board made up of sympathetic volunteer workers.

"I beg of you to try the experience of a separate board," Miss Wilson said. "Under this plan, the mothers will be given their pensions in a dignified way, in a way that will permit them to keep their self respect. Hundreds of mothers would refuse to apply for pensions if they had to apply to a board that dealt with delinquents and delinquents."

French to Begin Saar Withdrawal May 31

London, April 21 (By A. P.).—French plans for withdrawal from the Saar valley have been made.
Sir Austen Chamberlain, minister of foreign affairs, today told the house of commons. No definite date had been set, he said, but he understood the French had arranged to withdraw one battalion by May 31, and then proceed step by step with the withdrawal of the remaining troops.

CONGRESS MEMBER'S SON INJURED BY AUTO

Max Underwood, 4-year-old son of Representative Mell G. Underwood, of Ohio, yesterday was struck and knocked down at Seventeenth and Newton streets northwest by an automobile driven by Mrs. F. T.
Curtis, of 1613 Harvard street northwest.

Mrs. Curtis took the unconscious boy to Emergency hospital. Then she fainted. The extent of the boy's injuries was not known last night, but it was said by hospital authorities that it was possible he had a fractured skull.

The boy was unable to tell police his address beyond the fact that he lived in Cromwell terrace. Later it was found that he is the son of Representative Underwood and lives at 3415 Oakwood terrace.

WHITE SAYS HALF OF PATIENTS LACK COURT COMMITTAL

Testifies as to Tendency to Reduce Legal Work Regarding Wards.

BLANTON CHARGES
ABUSES BY FENNING

Hospital Head Declares 30-Day Limit Ignored for Inmate's Sake.

The efforts of members of Congress for 20 years to pry the lid off of the operations around St.
Elizabeths hospital met with success last night when Representative Blanton, of Texas, put Dr. W. A.
White, the institution's superintendent, through a merciless three-hour examination. Appearing before the House District subcommittee investigating Commissioner Fenning, Dr.
White testified that approximately half of the inmates had not been committed by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Under the act of 1875 relating to insane soldiers and sailors, it was developed, persons are committed to the institution by the various government departments, the public health service, Veterans Bureau and the Soldiers home.

In government cases the patient is likely to get a jury trial only if he has money, in which instance there is an "adjudication" in court.
This means a jury hearing, at which two physicians, usually, testify that the man is insane and a guardian is appointed. The whole proceeding, including the jury trial, is perfunctory, Representative Blanton charged, and Crandal Mackey, local attorney agreed with him.

BLANTON'S CHARGES OF INDICTMENT HERE DENIED BY COLLADAY

Eight Grand Juries Refused to Return True Bill, G. O. P. Committeeman Says.

STATEMENTS IN HOUSE ARE DECLARED FALSE

Answer Can Be Verified by Court Record, He Declares.

E. F. Colladay, Republican national committeeman, denied yesterday that he was indicted years ago for forgery or that he served time in jail as charged in the House Monday. Colladay made his denial in a letter to Representative Fairchild, of New York.

Mr. Colladay's letter follows: "I note by the Congressional Record containing the proceedings in the House of Representatives of April 19, 1926, that you interviewed me in a discussion in which my name was mentioned.

"The Record contains the inquiry by Representative Green, of Florida, as follows: "I want to know if Colladay is the man who was indicted years ago in the District for misdemeanors and high crimes."

"Representative Blanton, of Texas, answered as follows:

"He was charged with forgery, and was granted $500 bail, and was discharged on habeas corpus, but finally, on appeal, was remanded back to jail; but later he got his case nolle prossed."

"The statement that I was indicted is false and the statement that I was in jail is equally false.

"The facts are that more than 25 years ago a charge was made against me by an employee of the United States civil service commission in the matter of employment of a woman through civil service in the government printing office. This woman, in her application to the civil service commission, had made an allegation relating to her previous experience which was untrue. This was discovered by the civil service commission after this woman had been in the employ of the government printing office about a year, and the said employee of the civil service commission charged that I had procured the making of the untrue allegation. My only relation to the matter was that this woman had handed to me her application and asked if I could help her, and I sent in the application. I did not procure the making by her of the untrue allegation contained in her application and I was entirely innocent of the charge.

"Was Never in Jail.

"Not for one moment was I ever at any time in jail. Neither was I ever indicted. After my arrest I immediately sued out a writ of habeas corpus and the late Justice Andrew Bradley, after full hearing, rendered a lengthy opinion, in which he held that no crime was charged and ordered my release. The United States district attorney appealed from Mr. Justice Bradley's decision and the Court of Appeals reversed the case in an opinion written by the late Mr. Justice Brandeis, in which he held that the case might properly be presented to the grand jury, and if an indictment should be found by the grand jury then the case would be remanded to the grand jury in due course, and after hearing all witnesses, the grand jury refused to return an indictment. After eight grand juries had sat without returning an indictment, through my attorney, I demanded the dismissal of the case, and thereafter, on motion of the United States district attorney, the court dismissed the case.

Answers Forgery Charge.

"He was charged with forgery, and was granted $500 bail, and was discharged on habeas corpus, but finally, on appeal, was remanded back to jail; but later he got his case nolle prossed."

"The statement that I was indicted is false and the statement that I was in jail is equally false.

"The facts are that more than 25 years ago a charge was made against me by an employee of the United States civil service commission in the matter of employment of a woman through civil service in the government printing office. This woman, in her application to the civil service commission, had made an allegation relating to her previous experience which was untrue. This was discovered by the civil service commission after this woman had been in the employ of the government printing office about a year, and the said employee of the civil service commission charged that I had procured the making of the untrue allegation. My only relation to the matter was that this woman had handed to me her application and asked if I could help her, and I sent in the application. I did not procure the making by her of the untrue allegation contained in her application and I was entirely innocent of the charge.

"Was Never in Jail.

"Not for one moment was I ever at any time in jail. Neither was I ever indicted. After my arrest I immediately sued out a writ of habeas corpus and the late Justice Andrew Bradley, after full hearing, rendered a lengthy opinion, in which he held that no crime was charged and ordered my release. Contractor Endows Chair in College

William F. Lipscomb, local contractor, of the Ontario apartments, has contributed $25,000 toward the endowment of a chair in Lynchburg college, Lynchburg, Va., according to a report received here yesterday. The chair is in honor of the late Rev. F. D. Power, for many years pastor of Vermont Avenue Christian church, and will be known as the "F. D. Power New Testament Chair." It is said.

Burns Fatal to Woman, 78.

Mrs. Mary E. Gallaway, 78 years old, 647 I street southeast, died last night in Emergency hospital from burns on her face and body. According to police, her clothes caught fire Saturday afternoon when she stepped in front of a gas stove in the kitchen of her home.

FATIMA

HALF OF INMATES SAID TO LACK COMMITTALS

committed on "nothing more than a paper."

After he had been incarcerated for sometime, he got in touch with an attorney, who threatened proceedings. The corporation counsel's office then abandoned the case, and Mr. Mackey testified, and proceeded on the grounds that Greene was a pauper.

This charge was manifestly untenable, said Mr. Mackey, because the veteran had $1,500 in the bank and an income from the veterans bureau of $100 a month. A hearing of this charge was postponed eight times at the instance of the corporation counsel, said Mr. Mackey, and when Greene's attorney finally resorted to a writ of habeas corpus, the corporation counsel let the whole matter drop.

Presence of Mother Denied.

There was an 18-year-old girl up for lunacy hearing one day, Mr. Mackey related, and she asked that her mother be present. The deputy marshal said he had delivered a subpoena for the mother at a certain address, but the girl pointed out that the subpoena had been delivered at a corresponding address in the wrong section of the city. She was committed to St. Elizabeth's hospital, and the mother's contention that this girl was sane, but that the local procedure is so lax that she was denied at the hearing the presence even of her mother.

Mr. Mackey said he got one man, Robert Lewis, out of St. Elizabeth's whom Dr. White had classed as a dangerous paranoiac, kept him at his home several months, and then upon him as cultured and refined and that subsequently he went to war with the rank of lieutenant.

Getting back to Commissioner Fenning, Mr. Blanton charged that in the case of Samuel Fize, world war veteran, Mr. Fenning collected $1,183 for the years 1920 to 1925, although the veteran has been in Wisconsin since 1921.

Representative Schaefer, of Wisconsin, was on hand to testify in this case, but the committee did not get to him.

Blanton's Anger Stirred.

Dr. White sat calmly through Mr. Blanton's examination, which was mixed frequently with charges and stinging statements. On two occasions the superintendent appealed to Representative Gibson, of Vermont, chairman, against some of the remarks. Representatives Bowman, of West Virginia, and Houston, of Delaware, intervened at times and incurred Mr. Blanton's wrath.

At one time Mr. Blanton shouted to Mr. Houston:

"Oh, don't start to protecting him this early."

Dr. White's attitude towards the Texan was one of quiet defiance. He was unable to "recollect" in many instances, when Mr. Blanton sought to go into his appearance as alienist in insanity cases. The hospital superintendent answered freely the questions put to him by other committee members. Mr. Blanton warned the superintendent that he had been trying "to run him out of office" for several years and that he was "now going to the country" with the matter.

There was considerable play around the insanity proceedings years ago in Alexandria, Va., of Sol. W. C. Shell, against his wife, Mr. Blanton tried to get Dr. White to admit that he had given the prosecution a deposition to the effect that she was insane and that subsequently a jury had found her sane. At some time afterward, according to Mr. Blanton, the intended appeared in another case in which Judge J. B. T. Thornton was the Commonwealth's attorney.

Objects to Technical Terms.

Mr. Blanton tried to get the superintendent to admit that this colloquy had occurred:

"Aren't you the man who said Mrs. Shell was insane?" asked Judge Thornton.

"Yes, but I was mistaken then."

"Well, we couldn't use your testimony in this case."

Dr. White would go no further than to admit a hazy recollection of the name Shelley. Then Mr. Blanton called Mr. Mackey who testified that he had read Dr. White's deposition and that Judge Thornton had told of the incident. The hospital superintendent explained that the matter came back to him, proceeded to explain his deposition, using psychiatric terms. When he had concluded, the Texan faced him.

"Now Dr. White," he said, "in your statement to the newspapers this afternoon you said you wanted an open hearing. Now we have given it to you. I want you to explain to this audience why you could not recollect the Shelley case until confronted with the facts. Then your memory serves you to go into detail with a lot of dementia 'precoices,' paranoias and what not?"

The name of Dr. Percy Hickling, District alienist, was brought into the hearing. Mr. Mackey said Dr. Hickling once told him he had testified in 6,000 lunacy cases and that not once had testified that the defendant was sane.

Veterans' Bureau Criticized.

The House veterans' committee proceeded with its inquiry at a morning session, bringing the veterans' bureau sharply under fire. Representatives Rankin, Mississippi; Milligan, Missouri, and Bulwinkle,

Two Women Injured As Auto Overturns

Two women were injured last night when an automobile in which they were riding overturned in the Soldiers' Home grounds. Theodore C. Western, of 2904 Sixteenth street northwest, driver of the machine, was uninjured.

Miss Mary Baker, 20 years old, and Miss Gladys Emerich, 20 years old, both of 2904 Sixteenth street northwest, were thrown out of the automobile when it overturned. Miss Baker was knocked unconscious from a blow on the head and Miss Emerich suffered a badly injured arm. Both were taken to Sibley hospital.

Dragged Wife in Streets in Night Clothes Sunday, Charged.

Policeman Richard J. Lang, of the Sixth precinct, yesterday was dismissed from the police force on a charge of conduct unbecoming an officer, following investigation of a report that Sunday night Lang had dragged his wife through the streets in her night dress after a marital disagreement.

Lang was dismissed on order of Maj. Edwin B. Heise without appearance before the trial board, due to his status as a probationer on the police force, according to Lieut. Hugh L. Groves and William B. Stott, who investigated the affair.

According to the inspectors, Lang became enraged with his wife, Mrs. May Lang, of 318 C street northwest, when Mrs. Lang charged her husband with keeping late hours. Despite the protests of his wife, Lang ordered her from the house before she could put on additional clothes. When Mrs. Lang refused to leave, Lang, according to the police, dragged her from the home to the patrol box at Second street and Indiana avenue northwest. Neighbors, attracted by the woman's screams, surrounded Lang while he phoned for the patrol wagon and demanded that he release his wife.

OPPOSITION VOICED TO INSURANCE BILL BY MUTUAL AGENT

Another Conference Planned When All-Day Session Fails of Agreement.

MEASURE SUPPOSEDLY HAD UNITED SUPPORT

A. V. Gruhn Holds His Concerns Slighted in Draft for Local Code.

At the end of an all-day hearing on a substitute for the District insurance code bill, drafted by a conference of insurance company representatives and said to have been agreed to by all, the District commissioners were unable to determine whether or not the insurance men before them were agreed. The insurance men met alone to decide the point. They were unable to do so and another hearing before the commissioners will be held later.

The original proposed insurance code sponsored by the District superintendent of insurance, Thomas M. Baldwin, Jr., was approved by the commissioners and the citizens' advisory council and was submitted to Congress.

Opposition was organized before the Senate District committee and Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning, on the grounds that the code was too long and complicated, was induced to recommend to the commissioners that they ask the committee to defer consideration until the insurance men could crush out their differences.

Opposes Whole Bill.

This resulted in a conference of insurance men, which held several sessions and drafted a new bill, omitting certain items altogether and finally submitting a new draft as long as the original one. It was this draft that the commissioners considered yesterday in public hearing. Several minor amendments were suggested by the insurance representatives and then, when the final page was reached, A. V. Gruhn, of Chicago, arose and said:

"We are opposed to the whole bill."

He said he represented H. P. Janisch, general counsel for the mutual insurance companies. He added that his statement, saying that the bill was included no section relating to mutual fire and casualty automobile insurance companies.

North Carolina, Criticized Maj.

Davis G. Arnold, head of the bureau's guardianship service, for not maintaining a better check on the amount of fees granted.

Maj. Arnold contended that to keep a check such as suggested the bureau would have to have legal representation at every hearing at which fees were fixed, a virtual impossibility.

Representative Rankin pursued his questioning into the matter of bonds. It was developed that most of the bonds which the commissioner gave in his guardianship practice were made by the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., of which the commissioner is an agent.

$10,000 Bond Questioned.

Mr. Rankin took one specific case in which $1,500 was involved for which Maj. Arnold first said the commissioner made a bond of $10,000. Mr. Rankin sought to show that the commissioner had his bond named this high in order to get the agent for the company he would enjoy a higher commission. The premium on the bond was charged to the ward's funds.

Maj. Arnold, however, corrected his statement, saying that the $10,000 was the amount of the present bond, and that more than $1,500 might be involved at present. He was directed to get the amount of the original bond.

Representative Bulwinkle pressed Maj. Arnold as to whether he did not believe it was some one's duty to call the court's attention to an excessiveness of a fee of 10 per cent when the guardian has so little to do. Maj. Arnold said he had no way of knowing what kind of a showing the commissioner made to be allowed this fee. He could not possibly have such matters checked, he insisted.

Fee of $1,117.29 in One Case.

There was considerable questioning as to whether recommendations as to fees made by the auditor of the District Supreme court had been raised by the court. In the case of Henry J. Ahlemeyer, which was second on the list of veterans before the committee, Mr. Rankin cited that Mr. Fenning, in six instances, was allowed 10 per cent and in only one instance was the fee held to 5 per cent. The total of commissions in the Ahlemeyer case was $1,117.29.

"You made no investigation to see if any recommendations of the auditor as to what the commission should be had been changed in the court?" asked Mr. Rankin.

"To do all this we would have had to have a bigger force than the present 4,800 people."

There was a brief flurry in the House when Representative Fairchild, of New York, sought to have inserted in the record a letter from E. F. Colladay, Republican national committeeman, denying the charge that he had served time in jail for forgery several years ago. Representative Blanton, of Texas, who made the charge, said he had no objection, but would demand five minutes to speak in connection with the denial. When several other members arose, Representative Begg, of Ohio, voiced objection in order not to delay the business of the House.

Truck Owner Fined After Death of Child

Convicted of charges that the motor truck which killed 5-year-old Ernest Herbert Irwin, Jr., a month ago, was being driven with bad brakes and without a warning signal, Clarence E. Mealy, owner, last night was fined $50 and $10, respectively, on the two charges.

Judge McMahon released on personal bond Joseph Edward Herbert, 28 years old, who was driving the truck without a permit. The driver, accompanied by the owner, who had a permit. He was merely an employee obeying orders, Judge McMahon said. There should be "some way of checking up on brakes," the judge suggested.

Master Plumbers Hold Celebration

The plumbing board of the District of Columbia works with a studious ardor and zeal far out of proportion to the "small pittance" they receive in compensation, Maj. Raymond A. Wheeler, assistant engineer commissioner, last night told the members of the Master Plumbers' Association at their fifty-second anniversary celebration held in the Wardman Park hotel.

Nearly 300 members and their wives dined, danced and were entertained at the celebration. Joseph E. Heffron, toastmaster, introduced the following speakers: Robert Barrett, president of the association; A. R. McGonagall, plumbing inspector; U. G. Cunningham, Col. John W. Oehmman, building inspector, and Gus Eldman, of Baltimore.

ALLEGED "GREEN HAT" MAN HELD IN $1,000

Cassidy Carried Liquor in Case in House Office Building, Chorley Says.

George L. Cassidy, 33 years old, identified as "the man in the green hat," of 303 Seventeenth street northeast, who was arrested recently on a charge of transporting liquor to a room in the House office building, was held in $1,000 bond, following a hearing yesterday before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage.

Assistant District Attorney Greathouse represented the government. She produced as her star witness George Chorley, special Capitol policeman, who testified to having seen Cassidy emerge from the offices of two representatives with a brief case, in which, it was later discovered, were four quarts of alleged liquor.

Chorley testified that Cassidy made his escape after being temporarily detained in a corridor of the House office building, when Chorley went into a nearby office and called for the lieutenant of the watch, after Cassidy had refused to accompany him with the brief case.

INVESTIGATION ASKED OF ARREST IN CHURCH

Chevy Chase Citizens Claim Maryland Police Took Man Inside of District Line.

Charging that two policemen from Montgomery county, Maryland, illegally arrested Jefferson Davis, colored, Monday night, at the Chevy Chase Presbyterian church, where he is employed as janitor, members of the Chevy Chase Citizens association last night requested that the District commissioners investigate the arrest.

W. Y. Brady, who introduced the resolution, charged that the Maryland officers had no authority to arrest a citizen in this city when they only had a Maryland warrant. Jefferson was charged with assault upon his wife in Maryland. Freeman will be arraigned in Rockville today to answer the assault charges.

A resolution requesting the Mayor to call for the lieutenant of the watch over to the District a tract of land at Forty-first and Dennison streets northwest, which was recently purchased as a playground, was adopted by the association.

BURGLARIES OF DRUG STORES REPORTED

The robbery of two drug stores was reported yesterday to the police. George M. Herriott reported that the drug store at 918 U street northwest had been entered in the night through a side door. He said that 24 pints of whisky, three boxes of cigars and three cartons of cigarettes had been stolen. The total loss was given as $75. An attempt was made to break into the safe but was unsuccessful. Police expect that fingerprints left on the safe will prove a clue.

G. I. Gill reported the theft of $5 in change from the cash register and $5 in two-cent stamps from the drug store at 5226 Connecticut avenue northwest. Fingerprint clues were left at this store also.

Mrs. William B. Calver reported the entry early yesterday morning of her residence at 3303 Eighteenth street northwest and the theft of a silver tea set valued at $40 and a silver tray valued at $20. Thompson Keane, of Wardman Park hotel, reported the theft from his automobile of a horn valued at $40.

Southwest Citizen Association Stays in City Federation

The Southwest Citizens association yesterday unanimously voted to remain in the Federation of Citizens association after the executive committee, which had voted to recommend that the association withdraw from the main body at a recent meeting, now recommend that the association nonconcur in their own action.

The meeting was in Fairbrother school. H. A. Renz, a member of the executive committee, the motion that the association nonconcur in the committee's action, said:

"I do not believe it is advisable to withdraw at the present time. We should continue in the federation for the remainder of the year, and when another year arrives we should let that year take care of itself. To withdraw now would argue that we are mere boys over the defeat of our candidate. Such an action would seem childish and futile. There is no present hope of representation for us—we are shut out. But we ought to keep in the fight."

Committee to Carry On.

In order to "carry on the fight," a committee was appointed to draw up resolutions informing the District commissioners and the House and Senate District committees that the citizens advisory council is not representative of the citizens of Washington. It was pointed out that the Southwest, with a "white" population of 18,000, has no representation on the council whatever. The members of the committee are George M. Yeatman, president of the association; H. Renz, Frank A. Johnson, George L. Dant and Richard E. Harris.

The committee will meet to draw up the resolutions at 2 o'clock tomorrow in the board room of the American Security & Trust Co., Seventh and E streets southwest.

Mr. Renz tendered his resignation as a delegate to the federation, which was accepted. He explained that his action was a protest against "the currying of the president of the federation," referring to Jesse C. Suter, president.

Suter Too Much for Him.

"I am not so constructed that I can endure, or rather absorb, the treatment which has been accorded me by the president of the federation. His conduct of the meetings has been partisan, and his attitude toward those who do not agree with him is czar-like and arbitrary."

Mr. Yeatman reported the circumstances of the election of the citizens' advisory council which resulted in the defeat of Robert Strobel, candidate from the southwest. Mr. Yeatman said that he had been assured the entire year that a candidate from the southwest would be given a place on the council. At the crucial moment, however, those who had assured him of their support failed him, he said.

Calver reported the entry early yesterday morning of her residence at 3303 Eighteenth street northwest and the theft of a silver tea set valued at $40 and a silver tray valued at $20. Thompson Keane, of Wardman Park hotel, reported the theft from his automobile of a horn valued at $40.

Southwest Citizen Association Stays in City Federation

The Southwest Citizens association yesterday unanimously voted to remain in the Federation of Citizens association after the executive committee, which had voted to recommend that the association withdraw from the main body at a recent meeting, now recommend that the association nonconcur in their own action.

The meeting was in Fairbrother school. H. A. Renz, a member of the executive committee, the motion that the association nonconcur in the committee's action, said:

"I do not believe it is advisable to withdraw at the present time. We should continue in the federation for the remainder of the year, and when another year arrives we should let that year take care of itself. To withdraw now would argue that we are mere boys over the defeat of our candidate. Such an action would seem childish and futile. There is no present hope of representation for us—we are shut out. But we ought to keep in the fight."

Committee to Carry On.

In order to "carry on the fight," a committee was appointed to draw up resolutions informing the District commissioners and the House and Senate District committees that the citizens advisory council is not representative of the citizens of Washington. It was pointed out that the Southwest, with a "white" population of 18,000, has no representation on the council whatever. The members of the committee are George M. Yeatman, president of the association; H. Renz, Frank A. Johnson, George L. Dant and Richard E. Harris.

The committee will meet to draw up the resolutions at 2 o'clock tomorrow in the board room of the American Security & Trust Co., Seventh and E streets southwest.

Mr. Renz tendered his resignation as a delegate to the federation, which was accepted. He explained that his action was a protest against "the currying of the president of the federation," referring to Jesse C. Suter, president.

Suter Too Much for Him.

"I am not so constructed that I can endure, or rather absorb, the treatment which has been accorded me by the president of the federation. His conduct of the meetings has been partisan, and his attitude toward those who do not agree

COURT OF APPEALS LIMITS THE EXTENT OF RUM TREATIES

Do Not Widen Territorial Jurisdiction as to Law, Says Decision.

STEPS TO SEIZE SHIPS ORDERED DISMISSED

Pacts With Great Britain and Norway Declared Not Self-Existing.

New York, April 21 (By A. P.).—The effectiveness of the treaties with Great Britain, Norway and other countries permitting the United States to seize rum runners at any point within an hour's sailing distance of the shore, was greatly limited today by a decision in the United States circuit court of appeals setting forth that the treaties do not make law extending the limits of territorial jurisdiction as to laws of the United States.

The appellate court, in an opinion written by Judge Hough and concurred in by Judges Manton and Rogers, dismissed seizure proceedings brought by the government against the Sagittad, a Norwegian vessel, and the Diamantina, flying the British flag.

Seizure Proceedings Start.

The vessels were seized several months ago by coast guard crews, one of them 15 1/2 miles and the other 22 miles off the Long Island coast. They were brought to New York and the Federal attorney's office instituted seizure proceedings under the treaties with Norway and Great Britain.

Judge Hough today set forth that the government knew the vessels to be more than three miles off the coast and that "consequently the government's position is and must be that between Britain and Norway, and the United States, these have extended the territorial application of each and every law of the United States useful to prevent liquor smuggling to a point measured by the speed of any boat."

According to the records, the Sagittad sold nothing and the Diamantina was patronized by men aboard a sea-steamer, which, the government held, could easily have made the trip shoreward within one hour.

Not Self-Existing.

The appellate court holds that the treaties with Great Britain and Norway, which parallel those with some other countries, are not "self-existing."

"We are not called on to consider international effect of our statutes or the power of Congress to prescribe what is commonly called the 12-mile limit," the decision stated, "nor are we required to pass on congressional authority specifically to extend our customs, internal revenue and prohibition laws to a distance at sea measured by the speed of a hypothetical boat, for nothing of the kind has been attempted, but we do hold that no such extension of territorial jurisdiction is created by the treaties."

The government will resort to Congress rather than the Supreme Court to overcome legal obstacles to forcing forfeiture of liquor vessels seized outside of the 3-mile limit, but inside of the 12-mile treaty boundary.

The decision of the Federal court of appeals at New York in holding that the treaties with other nations permitting search and seizure outside the 3-mile limit did not permit forfeiture without the support of specific law, was viewed yesterday at the Department of Justice as practical, and no appeal will be made to the Supreme Court.

Anticipating such legal difficulties, Assistant Secretary Andrews, signs indicate that the country is better off under prohibition than when the saloon was in power.

"Our opponents offer us only chaos and confusion. They profess to be appalled by what they allege is an increase in drinking, drunkenness and lawlessness, but they offer us as a remedy only the return of the liquor traffic in some form which will prove acceptable to them."

Says Farmers Back Law.

S. L. Strivings, of Castle, N. Y., member of the New York State grange, said he represented the National Grange. After expressing himself as against any lessening of the government's attempt to enforce the prohibition law, he virtually said that the farmers would rebel if the law were modified.

Julian Codman, counsel for the modificationists, asked who appointed him to represent the farmers and he replied that a committee of three had given him the appointment. He admitted that section 29 of the Volstead act gives the farmer the right to make wine and cider of alcoholic content above one-half of 1 per cent.

"We make a non-fermented juice," he said.

"Doesn't it ferment in time?" Mr. Codman asked.

"Yes, in time."

"Isn't a man in the city entitled to beer which is nonintoxicating in fact if the farmer can have wine and cider nonintoxicating in fact?"

There was no direct reply, but the witness said the farmers did not want section 29 of the Volstead law repealed.

A. B. Bernstein, United States attorney for the Northern district of Ohio, with headquarters at Cleveland, was the next witness. He said he was enforcing the law and cited figures to show the large number of arrests and convictions. The padlock system was working well, he said, adding that a single injunction had held up the flow of 350,000 gallons of alcohol in one case.

Repeating to Senator Goff, Mr. Bernstein said he was opposed to abandoning trial by jury for petty cases of liquor law violation.

Upholds Jury Trial.

"I think every man is entitled to a jury trial," he said. "If the community in which he lives is dry, he will convict and he will obey the law. If the community is wet and doesn't want enforcement he won't obey the law anyway."

Mr. Bernstein said $187,000 in fines had been collected in the last four months. Violations were decreasing, he added, and brought forth a newspaper cartoon to illustrate this.

"Are we going to admit cartoons?" asked Mr. Codman.

"Wait till we see it," snapped Senator Walsh.

The witness said his records showed that about 60 per cent of the violators of the prohibition law were alien-born. He had some trouble, he said, because State officials did not co-operate and a Democratic politician had tried to see him about enforcement but being a Republican he did not take kindly to the visit. And incidentally, Mr. Bernstein said that politicians, both Democratic and Republican, gave him up as a bad job after they had talked with him.

If the law were enforced in other parts of the country as well as it is enforced in his district, he said, enforcement would pay for itself.

"Are the prohibition agents efficient?" Senator Goff asked.

"Oh, I wouldn't want to say that," the witness replied.

Senator Walsh asked about search warrants and Mr. Bernstein contended that no private house in charge of prohibition enforcement, already has asked Congress to enact a law giving full power to the coast guard inside the new territorial waters prescribed by the treaties.

could be searched without evidence of sale. Senator Harrell said he could not understand why a private home could not be searched if it became evident that there was unlawful possession of liquor in the house, but the witness replied he would not undertake such a search without evidence of sale. He said the present law should be amended by putting teeth in it and permitting search of homes where there was a presumption of unlawful possession.

"Do you think light wines and beer would decrease violations of the law?" Senator Goff asked, after Wayne B. Wheeler had passed a note to Senator Harrell.

"It would only provide another avenue of escape," replied the witness.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Codman, Mr. Bernstein said that the situation would be different if these light wines and beers could not be drunk on the premises. He declared that a great proportion of the 4,000,000 people in his district were wet, but said he did not know the price they paid for their liquor. Mr. Codman pressed the point as to the price of Scotch and Mr. Bernstein finally said that his agents knew the price, but he gave no definite figure. The 17,000 cases he had previously referred to as liquor law violations in his district concerned only such cases as came before the Federal courts. The city police of Cleveland handled from 30,000 to 50,000 cases in a year, he estimated.

William Sheaf Chase, superintendent of the International Reform Federation of Brooklyn, said prohibition had provided an improvement in the economic and social welfare of the people.

It is unpatriotic to say the law cannot be enforced, he said, because no one can know whether it is enforced until it is given a trial. This witness said that the low taste of those who did not see things in the light of the new day and he assailed the motion picture industry which, he said, taught the lowest things in life instead of the things that are holy.

The Rev. J. J. Curran, a Catholic priest, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., said he had urged total abstinence among his flock for many years. He had joined the Antisaloon league, he added, because he wished to make his fellow citizens of every race and creed "sober, happy and prosperous."

Says Labor Fears to Be Dry.

Charles Stelzie, of New York, former Presbyterian minister, said it was impossible to obtain a fair vote in union labor circles on prohibition because any member of a union feared to express an opinion in favor of the Volstead law. He explained that he had much to do with trade unionism and found that officials feared they would lose their jobs if it became known that they were dry.

"You do not represent the American Federation of Labor in any way?" asked Mr. Codman.

"No."

"You represent only yourself."

Miss Cora Frances Stoddard of the Scientific Temperance Federation, of Boston, submitted a statement of which she read a few paragraphs.

If the prohibition enforcement act were changed to define intoxicating liquors as those intoxicating in fact," she said, "it would seriously complicate administration of the law. It would become necessary to define intoxication itself."

Mr. J. M. Doran, head of the industrial alcohol division of the prohibition department here, testified that there were only 13,000,000 to 14,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol diverted each year to bootleg channels Mr. Doran was on the stand when the modificationists had their say and he was the belated witness who watched Senator Reed explain how liquor is made in the home. Yesterday he was in a more friendly element and had facts and figures to support his statement respecting industrial alcohol diversions. Incidentally, his testimony conflicted with that of Emory R. Buckner, United States attorney for the southern district of New York, who testified that about 60,000,000 gallons of indus-

GARY ADVOCATES VOTE ON DRY LAW CHANGES

Steel Corporation Head Thinks People Will Not Be Satisfied Any Other Way.

HIS PERSONAL VIEW ONLY

Special to The Washington Post.
Chicago, April 21.—Elbert H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, tonight in an interview in his rooms at the Drake hotel, said that he is in favor of a national vote on the question of modification of the prohibition law.

He said nothing to indicate he had changed his own dry views, but he thought the people should have a chance to express their judgment. What he said was this:

"Personally, I would like to see this whole question of modification of the Volstead act submitted to a vote by all the States. I believe that the opinion of a majority of the people, intelligently and honestly obtained, should control in all such questions as that."

"Do you mean the question of modification through permitting the use of light wines and beer?" Mr. Gary was asked. He replied:

"Any kind of modification."

"I am not an intoxicant myself," he added, "but I don't think this has anything to do with the question."

"There was an inference that the public furor over the question could be quieted in only one way—a vote on it."

"Mr. Gary, would you like to state flatly whether you are against prohibition?"

"I wouldn't want to say anything more than I have said."

He was asked if he knew whether other heads of great industries, men like himself, felt the way he did; that there should be a vote on the question of modification.

"I wouldn't want to discuss that," Mr. Gary replied.

In this connection it is recalled that Mr. Gary, with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and others, was one of the organizers of the citizens' committee of 1,000 for law enforcement, and that he was one of the seven members of that committee who sat down with President Coolidge at the famous White House breakfast of a little more than a year ago.

It was about that time Mr. Gary, as head of the prohibition enforcement fight, was asked to select a dry chief for the Pittsburgh district in which Mr. Gary's plants are located.

trial alcohol were diverted to the bootleg industry each year.

R. H. Rolofson, executive secretary of the Intercollegiate Prohibition society, filed a statement saying that students were drinking less than in the old saloon days. He opposed modification of the Volstead law.

Mayor Dever on Way Here
In Defense of Chicago

Chicago, April 21 (By A. P.).—Angered at the reflections on Chicago made yesterday before the Senate committee investigating prohibition by Edwin A. Olsen, United States district attorney here, Mayor William E. Dever stormed off for Washington today to tell the senators and the world "the truth about prohibition in Chicago."

He ordered Morgan A. Collins, chief of police, to "come along," and said he intended to refute "a pack of utter falsehoods" that have been heaped on Chicago by various Senate committees concerning Chicago.

"Now, it's my turn to talk, and I'm going to talk, talk, talk," the Mayor said as he boarded a train.

He telegraphed Senator Reed and later talked to Senator Walsh by telephone and was given assurance that an effort would be made to hear him. So he started. Mayor Dever said he went neither as a defender nor as a "defender of the good name of Chicago."

The city council today passed a resolution memorializing Congress to modify the Volstead law.

Antisaloon Officials Face Contempt Charge

Indianapolis, April 21 (By A. P.).—E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana antisaloon league, and E. A. Miles and Jesse Martin, league attorneys, must answer to the State supreme court in the contempt proceedings which Attorney General Gilliom filed against them several weeks ago.

The court today cited the three men to appear May 11 and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt.

Gilliom's charge was based on statements concerning the court made in Shumaker's annual report as superintendent of the league.

New York Drys Ask Referendum Hearing

Albany, N. Y., April 21 (By A. P.).—Dry forces opposed to the holding of a State referendum on the prohibition question next fall commenced today to lay their lines of attack on the proposition.

The New York Civic league's State superintendent, the Rev. O. R. Miller, requested Gov. Smith to call a public hearing on the Karle-Phelps referendum bill before taking final action on the measure. It was generally felt at the capitol that the governor would accede to the request.

New Political Plot
Nipped in Ecuador

Guayaquil, Ecuador, April 21 (By A. P.).—Another political conspiracy is alleged to have been discovered by the Ecuadorian government. Police announced that Clotario Paz, Dr. Carlos, Pulg and Capt. Lopez Ochoa, and Hector Icaza have been imprisoned in connection with the plot.

Atlantic Coast Line Announces Officers

Wilmington, N. C., April 21 (By A. P.).—Following a meeting at Richmond yesterday of the stockholders of the Atlantic Coast Line, elections of officers were announced at the general headquarters of the company here as follows:

Directors: H. Walters, George C. Jenkins, Waldo Newcomer, J. J. Nelligan, of Baltimore; F. B. Adams, H. L. Borden, New York; F. W. Scott, Richmond; F. K. Borden, Goldsboro, N. C.; Lyman Delano, George B. Elliott, F. R. Albright, T. F. Darden, W. W. MacKall, Henry C. McQueen, of Wilmington.

Officers elected by the board are: J. R. Kenly, Wilmington, president; Lyman Delano, Wilmington, executive vice president, and the following vice presidents: R. A. Brand, George B. Elliott, F. R. Albright, T. F. Darden, of Wilmington, and H. L. Borden, New York.

H. Walters was elected chairman of the board; George B. Elliott, general counsel; H. L. Borden, secretary and assistant treasurer, and John T. Reid, treasurer.

COOLIDGE'S LAW MENTOR,
JOHN C. HAMMOND, DIES

President Studied in His Offices Until Admitted to Bay State Bar.

JUDGE FIELD'S PARTNER

Northampton, Mass., April 21 (By A. P.).—John Chester Hammond, an old-time New England lawyer, in whose office, 30 years ago, Calvin Coolidge began the study of law, died of heart disease today. He was 84 years old.

After the elevation of Calvin Coolidge as governor of Massachusetts and later as Vice President and President, Mr. Hammond told of the coming of Coolidge as a young man to the office of Hammond and Field. The other partner, Judge Henry P. Field, of the probate court here, still is living.

In 1895, after his graduation from Amherst, Coolidge appeared at the law office with an Amherst friend, Mr. Hammond related. The friend died most of the talking. All that Mr. Hammond could recall that Coolidge said was "good morning."

A few weeks later Judge Field found a newspaper clipping announcing that Calvin Coolidge had won the $150 gold medal awarded by the Sons of the American Revolution for the best essay on the principles of the Revolution. Mr. Hammond and Judge Field questioned the young student, who admitted that he was the prize winner.

"Why didn't you tell us?" asked Judge Field.

"Didn't know you'd be interested," explained Coolidge.

Coolidge remained with the firm about 20 months, studying law until he was admitted to the bar.

Magruder Ordered To Fourth District

Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder has been ordered detached as commander of the light cruiser division of the scouting fleet and ordered to duty as commandant of the Fourth naval district at Philadelphia. It was announced at the Navy Department yesterday.

Rear Admiral Carl T. Vogelsang has been ordered as relief for Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder as commandant of the light cruiser division. Rear Admiral Vogelsang is now in command of the battleship division two, scouting fleet.

English Impeachment
Up in Senate Today

Articles of impeachment brought by the House against Federal Judge English, of Illinois, will be presented formally today to the Senate. The online managers appointed by the House to prosecute the case expect to appear before the Senate at 2 p. m. to read the articles indicting the judge on five counts of usurpation of power and other "high misdemeanor" offenses.

The next step would be for the Senate tomorrow to resolve itself temporarily into a trial court and issue a subpoena for Judge English to appear.

MILLS BILL TO HAVE FURTHER HEARINGS

German-American Claims Measure Is Sent Back to Committee.

House Republican leaders decided yesterday to have the ways and means committee hold further hearings on the Mills claim property bill which has been characterized by Representative Garner (Democrat), Texas, as a "stupendous steal."

This decision was reached at a conference at the capitol attended by Secretary Mellon and Undersecretary Winston, of the Treasury. The bill is designed to carry out awards of the German-American mixed claims commission, members of which will be heard by the committee Monday.

Acting Chairman Hawley said the committee had made no effort to investigate awards of the commission and that Mr. Garner, ranking Democrat on the committee, would be given an opportunity at the forthcoming meeting to prove his charges.

'BALTIMORE NIGHT' HELD BY COMMERCE CHAMBER

Visitors and Hosts Predict Closer Relationship Between 2 Cities.

RAPID GROWTH FORESEEN

Speaking last night at the "Baltimore Night" meeting of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, Engineer Commissioner J. Franklin Bell predicted that the two cities were heading toward the day when the citizens would differ as to whether Baltimore should be called "East Washington" or Washington called "West Baltimore."

The proposed Washington-Baltimore boulevard will hasten that day, he said, and the rapid growth of the two cities is bringing them closer. Col. Bell concluded by outlining for the benefit of the visitors the L'Enfant plan by which the city was laid out and developed.

Approximately 20 officers and directors of the Baltimore Association of Commerce were guests of the local chamber at its monthly meeting in the Willard hotel, in addition to an attendance of about 400 members of the Washington trade body.

Fear that the cold weather would ruin his apple crop was expressed by Representative John Phillip Hill, of Baltimore, "wet" leader of the House. He declared that due to the late spring, the seven apple trees on his Baltimore "farm" had not yet blossomed. The speaker ironically introduced himself as a member of the "City council of the District of Columbia."

Colvin B. Brown, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in his address pointed out that while Baltimore was developing industrially he would regret to see Washington turned into a city of smoke stacks.

Baltimore guests who spoke were A. S. Goldsborough, secretary of the Baltimore Association of Commerce; W. G. Towers, of the city council, and Randolph Barton, a director of the association.

MARITAL ROW, CHASE,
CAUSE ARREST OF 3

Argument Starts When Mrs.
Hawkins Sees Husband
With Another Woman.

A marital argument at Second and K streets northeast yesterday afternoon, a ride in two automobiles through the northeast section of the city and a continuance of the argument in the Ninth precinct later, resulted in two women and a man being held in $10 collateral each on charges of disorderly conduct.

The argument started before a crowd at Second and K streets northeast, when Mrs. Mel Hawkins, 22 years old, of 438 H street northeast, saw her husband, Jack B. Hawkins, 24 years old, walking with Miss Irene Longeneam, 24 years old, of 214 K street northeast.

Some one called the patrol. When it came into sight, Hawkins and Miss Longeneam ran to their machine while Mrs. Hawkins and a woman friend got into a taxi cab. The chase then followed through the northeast section of the city, ending in the Ninth precinct where the three decided to go to end their differences. Capt. Peck, of the Ninth precinct held all three on charges of disorderly conduct.

Air Training Ordered For Naval Graduates

All graduates from the naval academy must take flight training, a new general order signed by Secretary of the Navy Willbur provides. It requires all graduates to take a course of training of 25 flight hours either at the naval air station, Hampton Roads, Va., or the station at San Diego, Calif.

Graduates attached to the scouting fleet will train at Hampton Roads, and those attached to the battle fleet at San Diego, Calif.

The reason for the order is to make officers familiar with aviation activities by actual experience and to ascertain those suitable for further training as aviators. Those showing aptitude will receive extra training.

Fascist Coup d'Etat
In Warsaw Is Denied

(By the Associated Press.)

The Polish legation last night made public the following cablegram from Warsaw:

"The Polish Telegraphic Agency is authorized to state that rumors which have been spread today from Berlin to the press, of an alleged coup d'etat in Warsaw and an alleged proclamation that a fascist government would be established are devoid of all foundation. The Skrzynski cabinet sent in its resignation today. However, it was not accepted by the president of the republic, the consequence of which is that the cabinet remains in power for the time being."

HARMONY MARKS NOMINATIONS OF D. A. R.

Mrs. Coolidge. This reception, which was arranged for before the death of Col. John Coolidge, was carried through because it was regarded as being in a sense an official function and a long-established custom in White House and D. A. R. routine.

The members of the society were introduced to the President and Mrs. Coolidge by Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president general of the D. A. R.

The receiving party stood in the blue room. Long lines of delegates had formed before the hour of the reception at 4:30 p. m.

Mrs. Coolidge was in her most gracious mood, and the President was most cordial in his greetings to the delegates.

Mrs. Coolidge's Gown.

Mrs. Coolidge wore a gown of beige crepe romaine, banded in a deeper shade. A feature of the gown was the long, hanging sleeves, which came nearly to the bottom of her skirt.

Mrs. Cook and the 200 white-clad pages were received first. The doors and long French windows of the executive mansion were thrown open and the delegates were able to get a clear view of the White House grounds. Many of the guests strolled on the east terrace.

Mrs. Cook wore a gown of ashes of roses with a plaited cape of the same material. Her hat was a wide-brimmed one of transparent straw to match the gown.

After the delegates attended the reception they went home to prepare for one of the big incidents of the congress—nominations for the vacant offices in the organization.

Because of the withdrawal on Tuesday of Mrs. Charles White Nash, State regent of New York, for the office of president general, the only name placed in nomination for that position was Mrs. Alfred H. Brosseau, treasurer general, of Detroit, Mich., and Greenwich, Conn., whose name was put up by Mrs. Charles H. Bissell, State regent of Connecticut. In Mrs. Bissell's speech of nomination, she called attention to Mrs. Brosseau's outstanding services, her spirit of harmony and her Puritan ancestry.

As all the candidates for vice president general cannot be elected, there is bound to be some disappointment when the results of the election are given. Claims are being freely made by the friends of all the candidates, but a canvass of the situation seems to predict that the seven women whose elections as vice presidents general are most probable are the following: Mrs. John M. Beavers, District of Columbia; Mrs. Charles Read Banks, Plainfield, N. J.; Mrs. Lyman Stookey, California; Mrs. John Heron, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, Athens, Ga.; Mrs. William O. Spencer, Winston-Salem, N. Car.; and Mrs. Eugene Ray, of Louisville, Ky.

After the morning speeches of three minutes length and the single seconding speeches of one minute allowed to each candidate were made the candidates were presented to the audience and flowers from their delegations and friends handed to them.

Women Named Representative.

The women chosen on the ticket and for vice presidents general were truly representative of American womanhood and included a congressman's wife, several army officers' wives and women notable in their communities for achievement and D. A. R. records.

The evening session was opened with prayer by the Rev. J. J. Muir, chaplain of the Senate. One of the inspiring moments of this session was the presentation of the flag of Hawaii by Governor Wallace R. Farrington, of Hawaii, from the Aloha chapter, D. A. R., of Honolulu, Hawaii.

The principal speaker of the evening was the Rev. W. Warren Giles, of East Orange, N. J., who stated that the D. A. R. was one of the few real American audiences which could be gathered together in these days and that America was the greatest land of opportunity in the world. He called the Constitution of the United States the greatest book in America next to the Bible. Dr. Giles declared his belief that Washington was great because of his faith in the eternal duty of America to return to the God of our fathers.

An interesting estimate of the number of women in the United States eligible to membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution was made yesterday by Mrs. Amos A. Fries, chairman of the national committee on publicity. Mrs. Fries placed the number of possible Daughters of the American Revolution at nearly two million women. Every effort will be made to enroll these as rapidly as possible and it is hoped that within a few years the membership of the Daughters of the American Revolution may pass the million mark.

The morning and afternoon sessions yesterday were given to the reports of national chairmen of national committees. In these reports were set forth the constructive work of the Daughters of the American Revolution in practically every branch of national service and patriotic endeavor.

Wide Americanization Work.

In the report on "Americanization," made by Miss Alice Louise McDuffee, national chairman, many steps in this work were reported. In 38 States chapters are engaging in the campaign inaugurated by Commissioner John J. Tigert, of the United States department of education; 27 States support teachers in the night schools; the District of Columbia supports field teachers or contact workers in Americanization; 37 chapters participating in this work in Washington.

For the first time 48 State organizations have assisted in preparing aliens for citizenship or assisted in the naturalization courts. Thirty-four State organizations have given prizes for essays written by foreign children and eight States are fostering glee clubs made up of the foreign born and 23 States teach patriotic music. Six States have held institutes to inform themselves concerning work for the foreign born and many of the chairmen have taken courses in universities.

A census taken of the foreign born reached through D. A. R. activities shows 43,393 thus touched, while 16,939 children have been reached and 55 different nationalities have been assisted.

Miss McDuffee declared that the greatest need in Americanization work is for trained workers able to speak the languages and who know Old World backgrounds. A total of $105,800 was given by the society last year for Americanization work of which $36,429.39 was given for scholarships to the American International college, of Springfield, Mass.

Many Students Aided.

Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, national chairman of the D. A. R. student loan fund, told how many worthy students had been assisted. The district chapters gave a total of $2,026, including a fund of $1,000 established by the Army and Navy chapter at Maryville school, Maryville, Tenn.

The part to be taken by the D. A. R. in the sesquicentennial celebration in Philadelphia was outlined by Mrs. Alexander Ennis Patton, chairman of the D. A. R. contact committee for that purpose, in which she told that $5,000 would be expended to help furnish the replica of the house in Philadelphia in which George Washington lived while in that city. In this historic house Jefferson and Madison consulted over the Declaration of Independence.

Mrs. Alfred H. Brosseau, chairman of the Ellis island committee, gave a report of the work there. In the past three years, she pointed out, the D. A. R. had given a total of $13,481.64, and contributed 2,500 boxes of sewing and other materials for the use of the woman immigrants detained there.

She read a letter of appreciation from former Commissioner Curran in which he praised the work of the D. A. R. at Ellis island.

Miss Natalie Sumner Lincoln, editor of the D. A. R. Magazine, told of the growing historical value of the organization's official publication. She pointed out that a number of important writers had contributed stories to the magazine during the year.

That the magazine is now self-supporting was the welcome news brought to the delegates by Mrs. Charles White Nash, of New York, national chairman of the magazine committee.

President William Mather Lewis of George Washington university expressed his confidence in American youth in an address given at the morning session. He declared that the problems of youth were part of the general social condition of the hour and stated that law enforcement should begin in the American home. President Lewis assailed the practice of putting primary grade children in the hands of youngest and inexperienced teachers in the school systems and said that these impressionable minds should be molded by the wisest and most experienced and best paid teachers in the schools.

More respect on the part of youth for government and the officials of government institutions was advocated by President Lewis. He felt that a way to bring this about was to include citizenship courses in schools and colleges.

President Lewis outlined the work of George Washington university, the majority of whose 6,000 students, he pointed out, are employees of the government. He told of the plans of the authorities of the university for a new hall to be called Colonies' hall, where each of the thirteen lecture rooms would be dedicated to one of the colonies and in which there would be a painting of some great historical event in the life of the colony.

The exercise of the ballot will occupy much of the time of the delegates today. The States will vote by delegations and it is expected that the entire vote will be cast by 8 o'clock and the result may be had in time to announce it at the night session.

More national committee reports will be read during the day and the night session will be devoted to three-minute reports from the State regents.

NOTES OF D. A. R.

Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, candidate for vice president general from Georgia, has served her State as State regent, State vice regent and State recording secretary. She has served as State chairman of patriotic education and other important committees and has been national chairman of the student loan fund committee since its creation three years ago. Mrs. Talmadge has been regent of the Elijah Clarke chapter of Georgia.

Mrs. Harry Hyman, candidate for vice president general from Texas, has been endorsed by the chapter of which she has been regent for eight years, Alamo chapter of San Antonio, which she founded and of which she is honorary regent. Mrs. Hyman has also been State regent, regent of the Mary Isam Keith chapter, of Fort Worth, regent of the San Antonio de Bexar chapter, of San Antonio, and has organized Nancy Stout and William Chalk chapters of the D. A. R. Both of these chapters have been named from her ancestors.

Mrs. Hyman is a member of Daughters of the Confederacy, 1812, American Revolution, Signers of the Declaration of Independence, Colonial Dames, Colonial Governors and Patriots of America, First Families of Virginia, Americans of Royal Descent and Daughters of the Barons of Runnymede. Her ancestors were in every American war, and her three sons in the world war.

The Baltimore chapter held a luncheon in the Washington hotel Tuesday. Among those who came to Washington especially for the occasion were many leading D. A. R. Mrs. Frederick Irving Monier, the regent, presided.

Mrs. Clarence S. Paine, Lincoln, Neb., State regent, is interested in all historical and patriotic work; member of many patriotic societies; deputy governor of Nebraska of the National Society of Mayflower Descendants; registrar of the Colonial Dames of Nebraska; past State registrar of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots in Nebraska; secretary-treasurer of the Mississippi Valley Historical association, an organization comprising all the States of the Middle West.

The District of Columbia State conference and the Dolly Madison chapter of the District have endorsed Mrs. John M. Beavers for the office of vice president general from the District. Her announcement was signed by Mrs. James M. Willey, State regent elect; Mrs. David D. Caldwell, State recording secretary; Mrs. Jason Waterman, State corresponding secretary; Mrs. Arthur Deering Call, regent, Dolly Madison chapter; Miss Helen Harman, State treasurer, Mrs. Joseph H. Wheat, State historian, and Mrs. Lewis B. Thompson, State chaplain.

The Maine D. A. R. has unanimously endorsed Mrs. Benjamin Glazier Willey Cushman as a candidate for vice president general. She has served as State regent and in many other important State offices and as national vice chairman of the historical and literary reciprocity committee and national chairman of the committee on preservation of historic spots. She has served for nearly twelve years on the superintending school committee of Auburn.

Mrs. James A. Craig, former State regent of Florida, is a guest of Mrs. Howard L. Hodgkins.

Mrs. Freeman C. Rogers, of Pueblo, Colo., who is attending the congress, will remain in Washington for the meeting of the Daughters of the American Colonists next week.

Commemorating the ninetieth anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto, April 21, 1836, the Texas delegation will remain in Washington.

Buick shares its price with many motor cars —but its Value with none

Because of the great number of Buicks bought each year, and because every dollar of the savings of great volume goes back into Buick value, Buick's moderate price buys quality.

Buick can, and does build its cars the way all motor car engineers would like to build theirs, if their volume or selling price permitted.

Buick is selling more cars today than ever before in Buick history.* The public wants finer transportation at lower cost. And in Buick they get it.

THE ADJUSTMENT WITH ITALY.

The Senate has complied with public sentiment in approving of the Italian debt settlement. The practical sense of the public long ago expressed its support of the arrangement made by the debt commissions of the two governments, and nothing was gained by the prolonged delay in the Senate's action. No new facts have been brought out which would tend to discredit the conclusion reached by the debt commissions.

Strenuous efforts were made in the Senate to defeat the agreement because of Signor Mussolini's attitude and utterances. Some of the Italian premier's fervid speeches have been construed to mean that he cherishes aggressive plans for Italian expansion. Well informed observers of European politics are convinced, however, that Mussolini has no thought of stirring up war, and will go to great lengths to conserve peace and foster friendly relations with other governments.

The economic situation in Italy is such as to make war ambitions ridiculous. Italy is sorely in need of peace and recuperation. Her credit is small and her war resources, except man power, are insignificant. Unless Mussolini were supported by powerful and opulent allies, with great sea forces, the making of war by Italy would be a move toward national suicide. A single pistol shot may start a war which only the combined world can stop. Nothing indicates that Mussolini is "drunk with power" or "war mad," as his American critics have alleged. He has been prudent in the economic field and has established economies which would do credit to Calvin Coolidge. His administration has been strikingly successful in encouraging Italy to return to work and production. He has designs upon the African desert constituting the hinterland of Tripoli, but these designs are exactly similar to those of Western Americans, who build irrigation systems and reclaim arid lands. In this work Mussolini is deserving of high praise. The creation of productive areas in the African desert will offer an outlet for all the energy that Mussolini and his countrymen can command. An opportunity will be given to the surplus population to share in this national enterprise.

The adjustment of the Italian debt should now expedite a settlement with France. If Italy could bring herself to make a beginning, France can do so. The status of the lira and the franc tells a plain tale. The practical people of France may decide that the time has come to put an end to political juggling with this vital question.

Another penalty of success is that so many of your friends like to borrow money.

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS.

The industrial accident conference which the Secretary of Labor plans to be held in Washington, July 14 to 16, is intended to extend the present scope of cooperative work between the bureau of labor and the various State accident boards and commissions, and the various industries along the line of the work now being done in the iron and steel industry.

The bureau of labor statistics is trying to collect data on the accidents occurring in the establishments from which it secures its employment material. In this way it can establish an accident rate for those particular establishments.

A bill is before the Senate having for its purpose the gathering by the labor bureau of statistics in a number of more hazardous industries, and ultimately in the whole field of industry.

The only males of this era who boss the household are under three years of age.

A MODERN AJAX.

Sinclair Lewis, probably for the first time in his life, called upon God "to strike him dead, in ten minutes." He was not accommodated. The ways of the Almighty are wonderful and past finding out. Sinclair has thus acquired a little more publicity and is still on earth to continue his atheistic teachings. He will doubtless have followers, and may continue for many years to expound his theories as to his own nondivine origin. Quite probably, too, he will endeavor to convince others of like caliber that he has proved "that there is no God," arguing that if there exists a Supreme Being, He would certainly have made His existence known when such an excellent opportunity presented itself.

But Sinclair Lewis is not the first of his type to call upon the Deity to prove His power by striking the unbeliever to the earth. The late Col. Stettin, of Texas and Washington, told of an incident which occurred in his home State exactly like the Sinclair appeal in Kansas City the other day. According to the column an atheistic individual joined a little party of newspaper men in an outing when a violent storm compelled them to seek the shelter of a grove of trees. To demonstrate his disbelief in everything supernatural this Texan defied the Almighty to strike him where he stood. Just as he had repeated his blasphemous appeal a bolt of lightning struck one of the trees a few feet distant.

"When the rest of us recovered from the shock," recorded Col. Stettin, "we looked for that chap, but could scarcely discern him in the distance. He was fully half a mile away from that tree, and he had not been gone over 70 seconds."

For that matter, no man is a hero to the old home town.

MAKING THE DISTRICT PAY.

The House of Representatives on Tuesday declined to concur in the Senate amendment to the Rock Creek-Potomac parkway bill which would divide the cost of the work between the Federal government and the District. The bill as passed by the House had saddled the entire cost of this proposed improvement, some $600,000, on the District. Representative Zihlman, of Maryland, chairman of the District committee, sought in vain to have the House agree to the Senate amendment. The bill now goes to conference, where, it is to be hoped, the Senate conferees will insist upon the adoption of the Senate amendment.

In protesting against the action of the House, Mr. Zihlman pointed out that when the project was first authorized Congress had provided that it be carried out on a 50-50 basis. The House, however, departed from this original proposal and insisted that the District should pay the entire amount. The Maryland representative insisted that local taxpayers should not bear the whole cost of schemes for making the Federal city more beautiful, and asked whether Congress would require the local taxpayers to pay for a thoroughfare which had been constructed from the Capitol to the Union station. He also wanted to know whether it was in the mind of Congress to make Washingtonians pay half the cost for land acquired in Virginia and Maryland under the plans of the National Capital park planning commission.

Representative Zihlman has shown himself to be a good friend of the District of Columbia. He has endeavored in every way to play fair with local taxpayers, and has thrown the weight of his influence against the disposition on the part of some members of Congress to make the District bear the entire cost of upkeep of the National Capital. It is possible to understand how new members of Congress may take the view that the District taxpayers ought to pay for the upkeep of the seat of government, but how men who have served long in that body can persist in this idea is beyond understanding.

No contempt equals that a man feels for his wife's old sweetie.

POWER OVER INFLATION.

The condition of business and the slight indications of a tendency toward inflation and undue expansion of credit make the statement of Mr. Adolph C. Miller, member of the Federal reserve board, before the House committee on banking and currency of unusual interest. Said Mr. Miller:

"The power of the board in directing the granting of credits is exaggerated in the public mind. There is no mathematical formula by which it can control either inflation or deflation.
The impression still prevails that the Federal reserve board has power to expand or contract the currency of the country at will, and some persons believe that it has exercised that power in a reckless and arbitrary manner. While the law prescribes that the Federal reserve board shall have the right, acting through the Federal reserve agent, to grant in whole or in part or to reject entirely the application of any Federal reserve bank for Federal reserve notes, it has never exercised this right. On the contrary, it has always promptly approved every application."

In its annual report for 1919, the board said: "Modern business is done on credit. One of its life-giving principles is credit. * * * Radical and drastic deflation is not in contemplation, nor is a policy of further expansion. Either course would in the end lead only to disaster and must not be permitted to develop. * * * There need be no occasion for apprehension * * * if reasonable safeguards against the abuse of credit are respected."

Neither the increase nor the decrease in the volume of Federal reserve notes outstanding is the result of any preordained policy or premeditated design, for the volume of such notes in circulation or the amount of credit granted depends entirely upon the activity of business.

Well, well; if cousins shouldn't marry, neither should they pet.

DECLINE IN SHIPBUILDING.

The Department of Commerce reports that the decline in shipbuilding is world-wide. On June 30, 1924, ships under construction throughout the world totaled about 2,616,000 gross tons. The present total is about 2,010,000 gross tons. Operations on some 79,000 tons in the yards of Great Britain and Ireland have ceased, bringing the net total down to about 1,930,000 gross tons.

Great Britain and Ireland still hold the lead, while the United States clings to third place, with a total of only 177,000 gross tons. However, the United States shows a gain of about 50 per cent over its work in hand a year ago.

This decline in world shipbuilding is due to an oversupply resulting from the world war. Competition has been so intense as to drive many ships off the ocean. It is a war of the survival of the fittest, or perhaps the cheapest. In this the United States merchant marine can not hope to survive without some form of government protection.

PROSECUTION OF WAR FRAUDS.

Congress has agreed to the conference report on the bill appropriating funds for the Department of Justice, maintaining the item providing money for a continuance of the prosecution of war fraud cases.

The war transactions section of the Department of Justice was organized in May, 1922, for the purpose of investigating and prosecuting war frauds. On December 31, 1925, collections in cash amounted to $10,009,441, and deferred payments outstanding amounted to $435,846.

All of these collections were cash except two items representing real estate and one item representing common stock in a corporation, all of which the department figures as good as cash. Some of the payments were brought about by compromises and others by judgments. All were civil cases. Of the criminal cases, 37 indictments have been obtained, but 22 cases have been dismissed.

For this work Congress has thus far appropriated $2,700,000. Of this sum about $726,907 remains unexpended. It will be seen that the cost of collections, or recoveries, have been less than 20 per cent of the amount recovered. A part of this expense should be allocated to cases in which the courts have made no decision, but the expense has been incurred. There are 463 cases coming under this head still open. They are both civil and criminal cases. It is estimated that the expenses of this section of the Department of Justice up to July 1, 1926, will not exceed $700,000. This will leave an unexpended balance of about $300,000 out of the $1,000,000 appropriated by the last Congress.

Prosecutions of war fraud cases did not begin vigorously until late in 1922. In February, 1923, the joint board of survey was created for the purpose of making a review of the transactions involved in or growing out of the late war. This joint board consisted of representatives of the War Department and the Department of Justice. In the first year (1923) more than $3,000,000 was collected, or recovered, for the government.

This work has arisen out of frauds or alleged frauds against the government during and after the war. Most of these frauds were made possible because of the haste in making contracts and the adoption of the cost-plus plan. The lesson learned is that the government should institute measures in time of peace to meet a war emergency in order to frustrate the schemes of those who would try to get the best of the government in an hour of stress and peril.

Chivalry is the painless method man uses to face the inevitable and let the wife have her own way.

SURPLUS IMPORTS.

The aggregate value of all British exports to the United States in 1925 was $416,686,000, and in 1924 was $356,270,000. Before the world war British exports to the United States averaged about $260,000,000 in value. Thus British imports into this country, in value, are now more than twice the imports before the war.

Imports from foreign countries have been on the increase during the last three or four months, until the "balance of commodity trade" is against the United States.

One economist says:
Instead of becoming alarmed or panicky over a modest surplus of imports, let us accept this as a logical fruit of our unparalleled wealth and as making for the stability of the world.

This is correct within certain limits; but no country can stand a steady adverse commodity balance of trade, unless it has a large credit balance in the shape of ocean transportation service, gold credits and interest credits. If a nation buys more than it sells in commodities each year, it is tempting national bankruptcy.

Furthermore, what appears to be an evidence of unparalleled wealth might in time be changed into evidences of industrial poverty and disaster. Rapid increase in commodity imports is a peril if domestic production is obliged to meet unfair competition.

HOUSING THE DOUGHBOY.

On Monday the House passed a bill, reported from the military committee, which promises decent quarters for the men of the army who are now housed in the temporary shacks erected during the world war. These barracks are in many instances disgracefully insanitary and dilapidated. They were literally thrown together in the emergency of war times and served their purpose well enough for the time being, but in the last eight years have deteriorated faster than they could be repaired.

But the appeals of the War Department for funds to improve conditions went unheeded year after year until the recent action of Congress in authorizing the sale of "surplus real estate" owned by the department. This authorization opened a way to secure the remedy, in part at least, without increasing appropriations from the general funds of the Treasury.

The House bill simply authorizes the department to use the funds received from the sale of the lands in question in the construction of housing accommodations at the posts designated. The total thus made available for building purposes is $7,020,000 and will be expended in some fifteen or twenty posts located from the Atlantic coast to Hawaii.

The bill has yet to pass the Senate, but as the chairman of the military committee in the upper house, Senator Wadsworth, of New York, is understood to be earnestly in favor of the measure it is almost certain that the Senate will approve the action of the House, and that as a result building operations will be started immediately after the beginning of the next fiscal year.

The Worst Story I Have Heard Today
By Will Rogers

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Clarence Parker, the genial proprietor of the Leland Parker Hotel, of Minot, N. Dak. And say, that is a real live town. It's the smallest town I ever saw with a Zoo. They have a mighty nice little Zoo there, and fine parks. This Clarence Parker is quite a fellow. He is known all over the country. He is very wealthy and a great hunter and shooter. He has shot for years in the Grand American meet. He goes down in South Dakota every year and shoots Buffalo. They kill off the old ones. There is a ranch there that has hundreds of them. He has a bunch of his own on his ranch.

An old ranchman friend of Parker's left a half dozen quarts of Canadian "good will" in a package in the check room at the hotel. He had no way of identifying it, so he pulled out a card from a pack he had and wrote his name on the ten of Hearts, and left it on the package. When he came back for it a little later and it wasn't there he asked the colored boy in charge, and was told, "Why another man done come along with the Jack of Spades, and he jes' naturally took it."

Seward's Folly.
New York Sun: Alaska has already contributed handsomely to the fish supply of the nation; now reindeer meat from its great herds is to be brought to the tables of the multitude. What would the critics of "Seward's folly" have said if they had known the iceberg he bought would one day feed dwellers on the Atlantic coast?

"Citizen" Genet.
Brooklyn Eagle: Those who enthusiastically celebrated Jefferson day will be interested in the death at 82 of Louis F. Mike Murphy and Judge Gary

By GLENN FRANK

OUR government was designed by the fathers to do one sort of job, and we have given it an entirely different sort of job to do. May this not mean that we shall be driven to readjust its methods and machinery to this new job, if we want the greatest possible efficiency of government?

In the beginning our government was clearly designed to carry out the limited duty of protecting its citizens in their rights and their liberties; its original purpose was not to do things for its citizens, but to give them protection that would insure to them freedom and elbow room for conducting their lives and their enterprises in their own way.

The tools of the technique of the government our fathers founded were admirably fitted to that task.

But since then we have altered the purpose of our government. We have decided that our government shall, as Alleyn Ireland phrases it, be "the instrument of the social purpose," that year by year the government shall do more and more things for its citizens.

See what this means!

A government that was designed to play policeman and protector has been converted into an administrator of all sorts of complicated social and economic tasks.

We have taken the traffic cop from the corner and made him the executive of a vast and baffling enterprise.

We have, to make the illustration specific, taken Mike Murphy, who was an excellent regulator of traffic, and put him in Judge Gary's chair as head of a vast business organization.

It is nothing against either Mike Murphy or Judge Gary to say that the result has been that Mike Murphys have often proved inefficient executives and the Judge Garys have often become the social and economic traffic cops, issuing stop-and-go orders to our national life.

The real point we are likely to overlook is that if we insist upon using as the instrument for administering our social purpose a government that was originally designed to play the more or less limited role of policeman of our rights and liberties, we should be very open minded and deeply interested in the problem of a better and better adjustment of the old tools to the new task.

We must at least stop regarding as a "dangerous citizen" the man who mildly suggests that maybe the qualities that make Mike a good traffic cop are not the qualities that make an effective administrator of all sorts of enterprises into which government tends to go.

Of course, it is our right to say whether we want our government to be a policeman that will protect our freedom to do things for ourselves or a vast administrator that will do things for us, but whatever the role we give it, we should fit it for that role.

roads into the soft-coal diagnoses, their ritual cannibalism, too, for that matter, and it was an unlucky day for them when they were "discovered." The few remaining natives will erect no monument to Capt. Cook.

No Danger.
Kansas City Star: A professor predicts that in another thousand years there won't be standing room on this earth for the increased population. Don't worry; by that time the Florida realtors will have a system perfected for draining the Atlantic ocean into the Gulf of Mexico.

Side by Side.
Baltimore Sun: The Christian Science Monitor has printed on its first page a picture showing the flags of the United States and Canada flying side by side on the summit of White Pass, marking the boundary between Alaska and Yukon territory. Not a soldier was to be seen, not a gun. The picture was the perfect presentation of a monumental piece of evidence in favor of the theory that nations which dare to live in peace will live in peace—evidence which is consistently ignored by spouting cynics who shudder before all adventures in faith.

The wet celt Canada as a model. Alas, poor Canada! The liquor interests get the strangle hold there. Their policy means "carry the liquor home," and by corrupting the rising generation, obtain a long lease of power. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Cleveland Misquoted.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An editorial in your issue of Friday, April 16, entitled "Most Inefficient Government," has been called to my attention, in which you reproach me for stating that "the government of the United States is the most inefficient in the entire world." I agree with you that it is almost impossible to conceive of a man making such a remark and I certainly did not make it. My exact words were that "democratic representative government, such as we have in the United States, is the most inefficient type of government in the world," which you will agree is a harmless truism. I further said that this type of government though unwieldy had been deliberately chosen because it was safe, in preference to star chamber methods of the subject matter of my remarks. The fact that the original report appeared in the Baltimore Sun is, I admit, some excuse for believing it without investigation.

I would appreciate much your making this correction as promptly as the original reprinting.

"Boozy Breath."
To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There are certain points that I have not seen advanced by other prohibitionists. The modificationists and repealists want to flood the country with intoxicating liquors. Just what would happen, if on May 1, 1926, the liquor interests would begin operations? First the transportation facilities of the country would be chartered to move liquor to cities and towns everywhere, at the expense of traffic in the necessities of life. Merchants and professional men, bankers and all (but liquor vendors) would experience an immediate cut in their profits. Can the average business man stand less profit? Manufacturers of all kinds having been accustomed to sober workers, would not trust their machinery to drinkers, or be able to fill their contracts. Where, then, will the workers come in? Many of them that are hurrying for drink, will find themselves minus a job. Even now the gates are closed on men with a boozy breath. The United States is for progress, and is not going backward.

The wets celt Canada as a model. Alas, poor Canada! The liquor interests get the strangle hold there. Their policy means "carry the liquor home," and by corrupting the rising generation, obtain a long lease of power. Personal liberty within the law is ok, but the women and children inherit personal liberty also. T. McGILL, Lafayette, Ind., April 12.

from loss of charm under trying hygienic conditions secure this way. True protection—discards like tissue

SCORES of women's disorders are largely traced to day-to-day "sanitary pads," insecure and unsanitary.

Eight in 10 better-class women today employ "KOTEX."

Wear lightest gowns and frocks without a second thought, any day, anywhere.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

Deodorizes. Ends ALL fear of offending.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying, "KOTEX." No embarrassment.

In fairness to yourself, try this new way. Costs only a few cents. Twelve in a package.

WILL BOBBED HAIR GO OUT OF STYLE?

Some say yes, and some say no. Some declare it is too sensible a style for women ever to give it up. But no matter how the hair is worn, all agree that its washing is of the first importance. And Canthrox is the famous but simple preparation which very definitely answers the demand for the right method.

It's a simple shampoo, too—just dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and work it up into a soft, creamy lather which must be rubbed well all over the head into the hair. You can do this in a hurry any time, because the hair dries so quickly, and the results are delightful. Every strand will be so lustrous and fluffy, and it rids the scalp of all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. All good druggists can supply you with Canthrox, which is very inexpensive, costing only about three cents a shampoo.—Adv.

PRESIDENT GREETSS MANY DELEGATIONS; INVITATIONS POUR IN

Pittsfield, Mass., Asks Coolidge to Witness Dedication of War Memorial.

BIG ESTATE AT LENOX OFFERED FOR SUMMER

American Dairy Men Among Callers; Synagogue Convention Received.

Reception of delegates to various gatherings, who called to shake hands, and consideration of invitations cut a wide swath in the program of President Coolidge yesterday. Virtually the entire day was utilized for these purposes.

During the morning the President greeted and shook hands with 990 persons, and had his picture "shot" with three delegations. In the afternoon the Executive and Mrs. Coolidge greeted the delegates and alternates to the convention of the D. A. R. All in all, it was one of the most crowded days of the year for the President.

The first visitors included Senator Densen, of Illinois, who introduced Robert S. Abbott, editor, and N. K. McGill, of the Chicago Defender. They were followed by Representative Allen T. Treadway, who was accompanied by Mayor Fred T. Francis and former Mayor Henry G. West and Kelton B. Miller, of Pittsfield, Mass., who asked the President to be the leading figure in the dedication of a monument to the memory of the world war veterans who gave their lives in the recent war. Pittsfield plans a week-long celebration, commencing July 4, in this connection and, although the President will be in Philadelphia on July 4 and 5, he promised to take the invitation under consideration.

From Henry Ford's State. Possibly as an indication that Henry Ford's native State is "always on the job," President Kenyon L. Butterfield, of Michigan State college, accompanied by Representative Grant M. Hudson, extended an invitation for an event more than thirteen months off. It is the seventieth anniversary of the founding of the institution and will be held in June, 1927. The request was placed on the calendar for action at some later date. The regular invitation to establish the summer White House away from Washington was conveyed, this time by Howard Cole, of Lenox, Mass. Mr. Cole offered the President the use, for the summer months, of his estate at the Massachusetts summer resort. It consists of 20 acres of land and the residence and buildings would be sufficient to house the entire executive office force. While the President promised to consider the invitation it is known that it will not be accepted because of the intention of the executive not to be in his home State during the coming senatorial campaign there.

Photographed With Coolidge. Bishop David, of Lexington, then paid his respects, after which the delegates to the annual meeting of the American Dairy Federation, representing fourteen activities in the dairy industry, shook hands and were photographed with the President. They were accompanied to the executive offices by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine.

More than 300 delegates to the convention of the United Synagogue of America, who are holding their convention in Baltimore, were next to be received. They made the trip from the Maryland city in special buses, and, after having their pictures taken with the chief executive, they were entertained at luncheon by the local Jewish organizations.

Senator George Wharton Pepper took time enough from his primary campaign to present to the President the delegates to the Philadelphia conference of the Lutheran Church, in session in this city. And once more the executive posed with the group for the cameramen.

MRS. ROGERS' FUNERAL TODAY
White House Clerk Will Be Buried in Maryland.

Funeral services for Mrs. Maud Rogers, a native of this city and for eight years a clerk in the executive offices of the White House, will be held this afternoon at the home of her brother-in-law, Frank Fish Rogers, 3 Hezekiah street, Chevy Chase, Md. Burial will be in the family plot in Boonesboro, Md.

The death of Mrs. Rogers was a distinct shock to her associates at the executive offices, where she had been at work until Monday afternoon. An operation on her throat was the cause of death. She was the second woman to be employed in the executive offices. Her appointment was a personal one made by the late President Wilson, who issued an executive order placing her within the civil service while he was at the Paris peace conference. Prior to going to the White House, Mrs. Rogers was employed at Galt & Bros., jewelers.

REV. J. W. CLARK DIES AT CATHEDRAL MEETING

Rector Emeritus of St. James' Expires While at Session of Association.

CAME TO CAPITAL IN 1877

The Rev. James Walters Clark, rector emeritus of St. James' Episcopal church, Eighth street northeast, between B and C streets, died yesterday morning while waiting for a meeting of the National Cathedral association to convene in Whitby hall at Mount St. Albans.

Father Clark, who was 86 years old, appeared at Whitby hall apparently in excellent health. He took his seat in the meeting hall, and, after a few minutes, closed his eyes. Other clergymen attending the meeting thought he was resting. Finally the Rev. George W. Atkinson, rector of St. James' church, went to his side and asked him a question. When he did not raise his head, Dr. Atkinson called for a physician. Death was due to heart disease, the physician said. Members of the cathedral association were stunned when they learned Father Clark was dead.

Father Clark came to this city in 1877, and was appointed rector of St. James' church in 1899. He retired from active service and was made rector emeritus in April, 1925. He was born in Meriden, Conn., April 12, 1840, and was graduated from Trinity college in 1863.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John H. B. Gill, of this city, and a son living in New York. Funeral arrangements will be completed today.

MRS. FLAYDEN DIES.

Widow of Texas Representative Passes Away in San Antonio.

Mrs. Ellen Maurie Flayden, widow of the late Representative James S. Flayden, from Texas, died yesterday at her home in San Antonio, Tex., according to advices received here last night.

Representative Flayden was a member of the House of Representatives here for more than 20 years. During her husband's term in office Mrs. Flayden was one of the leaders in Congressional circles. She had been ill for several months.

Lane, Dallas, and Mrs. James Lowery Smith, Amarillo, former vice president general, and Mrs. Harry Hyman, Colorado City, candidate for vice president general from Texas. Other guests were Mrs. Morris Sheppard, Senator and Mrs. Earle B. Mayfield, Representative and Mrs. Frits G. Lanham, Representative Halton B. Summers, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Beall, Fort Worth; Mrs. E. T. Duff and Mrs. Vernon B. Lowery, Wichita Falls; Mrs. William L. Dunne and Miss Eleanor Cresswell Dunne, San Antonio; Miss Katherine Suggs, Fort Worth; Mrs. W. S. Gibbs, Huntsville; Mrs. P. S. Tilson, Houston; Miss Jane Oliver, Mrs. Lowery L. Wright, El Paso; Mrs. Eva Lovette, Sherman; Mrs. Gross R. Scruggs, Dallas; Miss Eleanor Thomas, Colorado City; Mrs. S. A. Temple, Dallas; Mrs. Guy Bryan, Houston; Mrs. Price Cross, Dallas; Mrs. Frank J. Trau, Waco; Mrs. M. L. Rome, Mrs. Stella Seagrigh Dowdy, Austin; Mrs. A. R. Howard, Palestine; Miss Violet Foster, Houston; Mrs. J. P. Harrison, Sherman; Mrs. Andrew Ransdell, Sherman; and Mrs. Jesse Andrews, Houston.

Mrs. Mary B. Heyer, of Virginia and North Carolina, has 22 bars on her insignia, denoting her ancestry. Mrs. Coolidge received the Children of the American Revolution, led by Mrs. Josiah Van Orsdel, the national president, at the White House yesterday.

The Caroline Scott Harrison memorial to be erected by the national society to honor the memory of the first president general, Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, is to be in the form of a memorial dormitory at Oxford College for Women at Oxford, Ohio. The college was established in 1830 by Mrs. Harrison's father, Dr. Witherspoon Scott. The corner stone was laid in March, when the president general, Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, was present. Mrs. John Lippelman is national chairman.

It was Mrs. John Brown Heron, of Pennsylvania, candidate for vice president general, who first suggested the name of Constitution hall for the new auditorium. A grandfather's clock has been given by Mrs. Charles Quarles, of the Milwaukee chapter. This will be placed in the Wisconsin room of Memorial Continental hall in memory of Mrs. Quarles' mother, Mrs. Louise Thiers, a real daughter, who died this winter at the age of 111 years and 4 months.

COMMITTEE HEARS RADIO FUND CHARGES

Burkan Says $50,000 Was Raised by Broadcasters to Aid Dill Bill.

(By Associated Press.)

The controversy between the National Association of Radio Broadcasters and the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, continued yesterday before the joint congressional patents committee, which is considering the Dill bill to fix a scale of prices for stations broadcasting copyright music.

Suggestion that Congress investigate an alleged $50,000 fund being raised by the broadcasters to have the Dill measure enacted was made to the committee by Nathan Burkan, counsel for the composers' organization. Asked by Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, if he was insinuating that such a fund was being improperly used, Mr. Burkan referred to a copy of a letter written by Earle C. Anthony, Los Angeles, Pacific coast regional director of the association, and said:

"Well, they are taxing churches and synagogues $50 apiece and you may place upon my suggestion any construction you please."

JARDINE CONSIDERATE TO CORN BELT BILL

Tells Dairy Federation He Prefers Enactment of Tinchin Measure.

Discussing the farm relief question in an address yesterday before the American Dairy federation, Secretary Jardine said that while he favored enactment of the Tinchin bill, which embodies his recommendations, he would not throw monkey wrenches into the plan to have Congress also consider the corn belt plan.

The House agriculture committee's program is to have the House consider both proposals, the corn belt program, which calls for the levying of an equalization fee for stabilizing crop surpluses, being provided for in a measure which Chairman Haugen is drafting.

The committee was asked, however, by Representative Williams (Republican), Illinois, to reconsider its decision of Tuesday to report both measures as a courtesy to representatives of farm organizations who had been allotted time to argue against the Tinchin bill at a committee session. Action on his motion, however, was deferred.

Ways and means committee directed German-American mixed claims commission to explain awards.

Investigation of $50,000 fund being raised by National Association of Radio Broadcasters urged before joint committee considering Dill copyright bill.

Agriculture committee reopened hearings on farm relief after voting to reconsider decision to report both the Tinchin and Haugen bills. Leaders decided to have further hearings on the Mills alien property bill.

Dr. W. A. White, of St. Elizabeth's hospital, was before the special district subcommittee investigating charges against Commissioner Fenning.

The Post Housekeeper

Home Efficiency Service
Nancy Cary

HOW shall I thank you for the nice letters that are pouring in with the recipes for our contest. They make me feel that we really are of material assistance and pleasure to the homemakers with whom we come in contact and needless to say it is a pleasure and a satisfaction to the Housekeeper to know this.

Indeed, yes, Mrs. Cavendish, ask anything you wish and if we are not able to answer the question offhand we will look the matter up and let you know.

I neglected to say on the day of the opening of the present contest that the winners will be announced as before on the Saturday morning following the closing of the contest on Thursday, April 29, 8 o'clock of the morning of Saturday, May 1, we shall print the name and address of two of our readers, one the winner of the first prize of $5 and the other the winner of the $2 second prize, in this contest of pie and cake recipes.

And also I want to add that recipes sent in for the first contest that were for pies and cakes may be resubmitted in the present contest, with an absolutely equal chance of winning. We have, each of us, a few valued recipes near and dear to our hearts, and that does not bar it from future contests, for it is each time grouped with other recipes over which it may rise to glorified heights. So send them back, for little do you know how close many of them came to a prize last time.

There are many new names in this great stock of entries, and many old ones, but some of the names that have come to be familiar to the Housekeeper are, to my sorrow, not here. No recipe as yet from Mrs. Frank Linzel, Mrs. Stroh, Miss Jennings, Mrs. Lodge, Mrs. Womble, and a number of others. This is probably due to the fact that ample time yet remains to send in contributions, but the names of friends of the column become personalities to me and I miss them when they do not come in. As interest in our column grows new names are constantly appearing, but we miss the old friends, nevertheless.

Today I have for you a recipe from Mrs. Hartly, of Jackson street, that we shall have as a meat course in today's menu. Mrs. Hartly offered us a recipe for a whole wheat bread also, and if we may have it now we will print it in the very near future. And, too, I have for you a cream cake that is odd and old, and splendid.

MENU.
Pea Soup with Frankfurters.
Crackers. Celery.
"Delicious" Roast.
Panned Potatoes. Buttered Carrots.
Graham Bread.
Cream Cakes. Coffee or Cocoa.

"DELICIOUS" ROAST.

Use three or four pounds of chuck roast of beef, wash thoroughly and place in an ordinary half-gallon stone crock. Add salt and pepper and a small onion and, closely covered, place in a slow oven for three hours. After baking for two hours potatoes may be put in the crock to roast with the meat. This meat will be very tender, finely flavored and not dry. A cup of boiling water must be added to the crock when it is first placed in the oven.—Mrs. F. M. Hartly.

CREAM CAKES.

1/4-pound butter, 1 1/2 cups flour, 4 eggs and 1 cup water. Stir the butter in the water, which must be warm, place on the fire in a small saucepan and slowly bring to a boil, stirring it often. When it boils put in the flour, boil one minute, stirring all the while, take from the fire, turn into a deep dish and let it cool. Beat the eggs very light and whip into this cooled paste, first the yolks and then very gently, the whites. Drop in great spoonfuls upon a buttered paper, taking care not to place them close enough together to allow them to run into each other, and bake for ten minutes.

CREAM FOR FILLING.

1 pint sweet milk, 2 tablespoonfuls cornstarch, 1 egg, 1 cup sugar. Wet the cornstarch with enough milk to work it into a smooth paste. Boil the rest of the milk. Beat the eggs and add the sugar and cornstarch to them and as soon as the milk boils pour in the mixture gradually, stirring all the time until smooth and thick. Drop in a teaspoonful of butter and when this is mixed in set aside to cool. When cool add vanilla or lemon to taste and with a sharp knife cut a tiny line around the puff and split them. Fill with the mixture and add whipped cream if you so desire. The quiet little old lady from whom I received this recipe a good many years ago declared that they were the best she had ever seen or heard of, and I can certainly recommend them to you from my own personal experience with them.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

GORILLAS AND MEN.

IN "Brightest Africa," a story of a visit to gorilla land, Akeley tells us that an adult gorilla is about 5 feet 8 inches high, weighs 350 pounds and has a chest measure of 62 inches. But his legs are far shorter than those of man. He has a well developed heel and his big toe is not arranged like a thumb. His leg muscles are built on the same basis as are those of man. His mouth, palate and tongue muscles indicate that he could easily learn to talk. His brain is that of a 2-year-old child. Therefore, he should be able to learn to speak and to use a few words. He might be able to fit into society about as well as a 2-year-old child does.

"The gorilla uses no tools, unless grasping a stick may indicate the beginnings of such an idea."

From this story of gorillas by Akeley, I turned to an article on the Biological Sense of Beauty," by Dr. E. C. Pieltie, who argues that our ideals of beauty are built on an unconscious urge toward upward biologic evolution. Slender, tall, long-legged people are accepted as the Adonises and Junos. Why? Because such people are farthest removed from the gorilla stage of the long human climb. We call those people ugly who have either a flat nose, short, bowed legs, round shoulders, too long arms, or large, canine teeth, or pointed ears, because our cousins, gorillas, have those peculiarities. "In choosing our partners for life, we think we are free agents, but instead we are driven by the cell memory of the long human climb."

"The arched form of the human foot is in demand because our tree-climbing forebears had flat feet. The long heel enjoys some preference and would enjoy more if fashion made heels visible, because no creature which goes on all fours has or could use a heel."

"Man is the only animal which has a lobe to the ear," says Dr. Pieltie. "Therefore, at various stages in the history of civilization both men and women have worn earrings, pierced the ears with various devices, elongated the lobe by pulling it, or indulged in some other form of deforming which calls attention to the ear lobe."

"Man is about the only member of the family that needs no hair. Man shaves and occasionally indulges in baldness as a fine art." Dr. Pieltie thinks the dictates of fashion are under the urge of evolution, though the dressmakers may not know it. On this hypothesis present-day dress, in that it is revealing, makes for the welfare of the race. It makes it possible for a person to select a life mate and the parent of children with a proper regard for the biologic urge. With the old-style woman's dress a man might marry a woman thinking she had long legs like a superhuman only to find that he had drawn something with the legs not far removed from those of the gorilla.

The Average Smart Bob of the Moment

©VOGUE

After all, when it comes to types, most of us grade up as "average," and the height of our ambition ought to be that we should express that average smartly, without undue conservatism or foolish exaggeration.

So here is the bob for the "smart average." Her hair may be of any shade, but this is the most of it that the mode allows her—rigorously thinned out, you see, to make that sleek, small-headed effect without which one is better dead at the moment.

One or two big waves are all that we're allowed—no more chrysanthemum tops, Circassian slaves or kinky-winkees. If we were not "smart average," but a bit more extreme, we'd probably leave our hair straight, show our ears and brush everything back to unveil a marble brow, but as it is, we allow ourselves a few concessions to the code of yesterday that demanded becomingness.

A faint point in the back is the smartest thing to have, but the round outline is quite permissible.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

WE TELL HER A STORY

Hey, little Miss Three, Climb up on my knee And I'll tell you the tale Of the skillemaree. The skillemaree, With a horn for a nose, Which frightens the children Whenever he blows.

Now up in a tree Just as gay as could be, Lived a bird that was sought By the skillemaree; To catch him he tried Every way that he knew. For he thought he would taste Very nice in a stew.

Now all the day long The bird warbled his song Not dreaming of evil Or thinking of wrong;

He twittered and sang On the branch of the tree With never a fear Of the skillemaree. Now the skillemaree, Just as sly as could be, Crawled slowly one day To the foot of the tree And was ready to spring On that poor little bird When the strangest and loudest Of noises was heard. Away out of reach Flew the bird with a screech, And his little heart fluttered Too frightened for speech. For the skillemaree Had to sneeze and he snore, And he couldn't catch birds With a horn for a nose.

Conduct and Common Sense

Introductions—Fourth Part.

Many people write to ask us why the expressions, "Meet So and So," "Know the Wife," and such breezy phrases, are held up to public ridicule. There's nothing wrong in these combinations of words, but they are too glib and off-hand to be socially distinguished. As we said before, there is a class that has dignity as well as leisure; that class does not use those words. It is considered better manners to be a little more ceremonious. The best bred people do not happen to say, "Pleased to meet you,"—just short, like that. But there are plenty of excellent people who do, we simply put this before our readers for what it is worth to them. "I am very glad to meet you," is the polite equivalent for the last, and for the first expressions we have, in our former articles, given the formulas.

To a newcomer entering a small circle—a room, say,—containing only a few people, you might name them all. If there were many people present it would be enough to mention those nearest. The common sense of this is that no one can easily take in the names and individualities of ten or a dozen strange persons at a time. Time must be given, and the company gradually made known to each other. The ability to remember names and faces is, however, a good social asset. Sometimes strangers are forced to introduce themselves to each other. As for example if they meet in the house of a mutual friend who is, for the moment, absent. A man might say, "My name is John Jones," and a woman, "I am Bessie Brown—spinster."

Scarf Most Favored As "Extra" Garment

London, April 19 (By A. P.).—One of the most favored "extra" articles of attire among society women is the scarf. It is being worn in all colors and sizes to match evening gowns, afternoon frocks, walking suits and motoring outfits. When not composed of the same material as the garment with which it is worn, it is made of heavy crepe de chine or soft suede. Usually it is from six to ten inches wide and worn with ends over the left shoulder and front of the dress. All scarfs shown in the stores are plain with fringed edges.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

Postpone the Wedding.

DEAR Miss McDonald: You have helped others with their problems, I wonder if you can help me? It all seems to me so complicated I don't know whether I can tell you about it in a way to make you understand.

I am 20 years of age and am engaged to a young man of the same age. We had only been engaged about eight months when I became dissatisfied and thought I wanted some one new. I studied about the situation carefully and was sure I did not love my fiancé, instead of telling him at once I did the most foolish thing I could have done, I went out with other fellows and of course my conscience hurt me and I had to tell him. He had known this almost from the first, but just waited for me to tell him of it. He forgave me. He was so good to me about this I began to think probably I was wrong about not loving him and decided I would let things drift along. I didn't tell him then nor later, for about two months ago I was in an accident and this young man risked his life to save mine. Now I suppose this will sound too silly to you, but it is very serious to me. Especially when on a certain little question or answer there depends one's happiness.

However, I know this young man loves me. And I know it—not because he saved my life, but the things he has done for me, to make me happy. Both his parents and mine are pleased with the way things are going and the date is set. Now I feel that I must marry him to repay for all the things he has done for me. But—I find myself thinking and wishing something will happen before October to prevent some things to happen. I try to not let thoughts like this come into my mind but I can't help it. When I am with him I am sure I love him and when I am away from him I do a lot of thinking. I guess I am a bit coward, but I could tell him the truth if I thought it was best. As it is, I think I will learn to love him. I am sorry if this letter is long. Will you please publish this?

What I want you to tell me is: Do you think I love him and if I should marry him, trusting that I will learn to love him? Do you think I am a coward? I think a person as old as I am should know their own mind but it seems that I don't.

I hope you can get the main points of this letter, but I am afraid I have made a mess of it. I won't take any more of your time, and I will be very grateful for any advice you can give me.

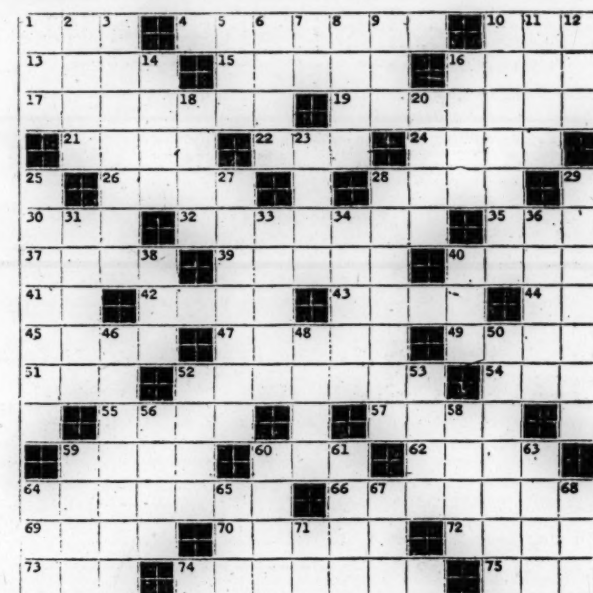

MARY.

Well, now, if you are as honest as you think you will certainly postpone your wedding. There is nothing generous, or kind in marrying a man who thinks you love him, when you know you do not? If so, how so? Now the maiden who is foolish enough to marry a man who knows she does not love him, may really be acting generously as far as she can see—which is not far. But for you, my dear, there isn't even the laurel wreath of the martyr or whatever it is they put on martyrs. Though you are unquestionably entitled to the aluminum medal for playing safe in the face of difficulties. What you are really thinking is this:

Here's Tom very good in his way, but I got him rather easily and might with fair luck and a little time do better. Of course he did pluck me dripping wet, out of a rough sea, and I am sure of him, and I might not be so lucky again. Besides he's got nice looking relatives to introduce to my friends, and several thousand in the bank and he can dance. His looks are fair to passable, and his manners are mild. I shall have things my own way—and I'll be safely married. Furthermore it's embarrassing to go through all the explanations to family, neighbors, friends and enemies as to why I broke off my engagement. Perhaps I had better let things go.

And this is no reflection upon you, my child, for a like procession of weighty considerations sift through

unless she is in love. In that case she is simply thinking of him—nothing else. And that is why I tell you to postpone that wedding.

You are not in love. And it is my humble guess, that your very self contained love knows it—even though you think he does not. He surprised you once before, you know, when you thought that your activities were entirely unknown to him. Some men have a way of just awaiting outcomes. He probably at this moment is waiting for you to come out with the truth and justify that honesty you believe to be a part of your make-up. Why not tell the truth?

If you don't love the man it is criminal to marry him. So you really have no choice if you are honest or honest if you are anything but criminally dishonest.

Tell the man the wedding must be postponed. Having broken the ice with that gentle hint, you can splash around and tell the rest. And about the time you have finished telling him all about it, you will probably decide that you love him and always did love him, and may even remember for the first time that that caty Minnie Smith would snap him up in a minute if she got the chance. And the wedding will take place—as scheduled. For that's about how and why eight weddings in every 10 happen. And more's the pity. But by all means tell the man and clear the air!

expert economist. She could do more with a dollar than all the budget makers in the world. My father was a railroad mechanic and he never made more than fifty dollars a month and there were eight of us children.

I have never been able to quite understand how my mother managed to do so much with so little money, for we always had enough to eat and enough to wear—always enough, but never anything over. Nothing went to waste. A suit of clothes never wore out; the bad places were patched until there was nothing left to patch and then it was taken apart and made over for a smaller member of the family.

"I faintly remember trimming newspaper to cover the pantry shelves; I distinctly remember that light and heat and hot water were things to be careful of. Every lump of coal gave its full measure of heat; when we were through with the ashes they were ashes—there was nothing in them that would burn."

"The home atmosphere was not one of pinching; it was simply that everything had to be accounted for and wasted was a sin."

"That was the lesson my mother taught me."

Bride Discontinues Suit.

Mrs. Helen Jones Montague, wife of Anthony L. Montague, who says she fled from her husband on the wedding eve on September 16, last, discontinued her annulment suit yesterday in equity court through her counsel, Charles E. Early. The order dismissing this case was signed by Early and Stuart Lewis, counsel for Montague.

HIS MOTHER

Edited by Joseph Kaye.

THE MOTHER OF EDWARD N. HURLEY

Edward N. Hurley is one of the most famous of America's manufacturers and business men. He started as a railroad fireman and during the war his reputation was such that he was intrusted with the chairmanship of the United States Shipping Board. Since then other honors have been accorded him. Mr. Hurley wholeheartedly acknowledges that it was his mother who gave him the training that led to his success.

"My mother," he says, "was an

MODISH MITZI

"I'm thinking of getting a yacht," says Dad, half to himself and half to Mitzi. Mitzi's first thought is that she has no clothes for a yacht. Yet the hat she wears, with its high crown and small brim, is smart on land but—let's clear she will have to do some shopping right away.

Maybe Mitzi Won't Reach the High Seas

The correct yachting costume, Mitzi is assured, is a navy blue coat, double breasted and trimmed with brass buttons, worn with a pleated beige skirt. Her small felt hat with navy blue ribbon band has a narrow brim. Mitzi decides that she really has the makings of a good sailor.

Polly, of course, is outfitting herself, too, for this yacht. She has chosen a white flannel dress and wears over it a blue cheviot coat built on slightly different lines from Mitzi's. It's just the thing one should own to ride the waves, and sail o'er the bounding main. Polly can almost feel the deck chair beneath her at this minute.

"We're all ready, Dad," says Mitzi. "For what?" asks Dad. "For the yacht, of course," explains Polly. Dad doesn't think that the brimless beret of beige taffeta and brown grosgrain that Mitzi wears looks like a good choice for the high sea. "Oh, about the yacht, girls, I decided to get a new car, instead," he explains.

THE WASHINGTON POST: THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1926.

SECURITY BANK'S CAPITAL

INCREASED TO $300,000

Stockholders Approve Step and Vote $50,000
Stock Dividend.

LOCAL MARKET IS DULL

By F. W. PATTERSON.

Stockholders of the Security Bank and Commercial Bank were unanimous in their approval of the recommendation of the board of directors that the capital stock of the institution be increased from $200,000 to $300,000 at a meeting yesterday afternoon, called to act on the proposed increase.

The stockholders were presided over by John R. Galloway, and followed by the vote he informed Julius P. Peyser, president of the institution, and authorized him to perfect the details.

Under the plans approved, $50,000 will be a stock dividend of one share for each four shares held, and the right to subscribe to the other $50,000 will be available in the same proportion to all stockholders. It is understood that the issue of stock has already been oversubscribed and that the completion of the plan involving the increase of capital from the approval of the stockholders from state of West Virginia, a charter.

Upon completion of the increase of capital that item will total $200,000 and the surplus will be $50,000 of $55,000.

Officers of this institution are: Julius P. Peyser, president; Fred J. Koe, and Francis G. Addison, vice presidents; Samuel R. Baisley, cashier; Latrobe Owen and J. Louis Shipp, assistant cashiers.

Dull on the Exchange.

Although tantalizingly quiet yesterday, the stock exchange was productive of one interesting development, the gain of Potomac Electric, which preferred amounting to a 10 point advance. These shares opened at 107 and were maintained with level through the day. With these shares recorded solid, Potomac Electric was 106 1/2 bid and 107 1/2 asked. Another stock, Monotype, the only trading, gained 84 on a 10 sale turnover, after which it advanced to 84 1/2.

The bond division was overlooked except for a turnover in Washington Gas Light 5s, which moved at 100 1/4.

Chapter Meets Tonight.

A meeting of the Washington chapter, American Institute of Banking, has been called for Tuesday night. The meeting, according to the chapter, is the most important gathering for the year. It will select delegates to the convention at Dallas, Tex., in July, and will also nominate the members for election to the executive offices.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, April 22.—The stock market showed decided strength throughout the session today in response to improvement in credit and the first window day of spring. Ralls, standard industrials, motors and several favored specialties joined in the most sustained rise the market has witnessed in several weeks. The tone for call loans on the stock exchange dropped to 3 1/2 per cent for the first time since September 20, 1925.

It was apparent the buying movement had been started by professional traders, the length of time the public undoubtedly will become more interested. Investors contributed to the strength of the market by purchases at what they considered fair prices.

Gains for the day ranged from 2 to 10 points. The market was considerably broader than for some time past. The demand rails reflected initiative on the constructive side rather than that of the bears. With money at current close 6 per cent or more looked attractive, especially as call loans continued to close at 3 1/2 per cent. Substantial March reports have been received and the market was of the class that led the market. Atchison, New York Central, Reading, Louisville and Nashville and Atlantic Coast Line.

The standard industrials also helped by a number of favorable developments. These included an increase in the dividend rate voted by the Vanadium board, the ratification of a six-months' statement of the Bethlehem Steel Co., which was the best for any similar period in the history of the company, and the appearance of the midwestern, and other lines, which, while not particularly optimistic, were far from unsatisfactory.

Runners continued to be run ahead of bookings and production is still above shipments, but aside from the motor industry, other lines consuming steel continue to be close to the March rolling mill operations for sustained rate for some time to come. Steel levels reached on Monday prior to dividend talk at market, which set of Bethlehem and Republic earnings for the first quarter. Bethlehem is expected to give some idea of what the big corporation's earnings will show next Tuesday.

Allied Chemical, General Electric, Woolworth and General Motors, forged steadily ahead. The buying in local transactions continued, with the financial community talking of the change in community talk of the transit commission, and the possibility that the company would be authorized to supplement their service by a system.

Special moves followed several issues. Commercial solvent shares were bid up on news that the company would retire its notes and class A stock.

Forces working for higher prices in the utilities were encouraged by response of the market to the increase in Gas & Electric dividend, strong as a group, and good buying in the local transactions.

In the foreign exchange market, French francs rallied a little more than 3 points, but Belgian francs and Norwegian kroner yielded 10 points to a new high. The demand for Japanese yen against sales of silver sent the Chinese tael and Hongkong dollar to record lows for some years.

Nearly All French Loans Rally; Rail Obligations Advance Sharply.

GOOD GAINS IN TRACTION

New York, April 21 (By A. P.). Under the stimulating influence of money rates, a series of favorable railroad developments and approval of the Italian debt settlement, bond prices today forged into new high ground for the year. Most active scale in several weeks. The ready resumption of new lower interest rates on these issues helped to restore the confidence of investors while the abundance of charges and call funds at the lower end of the market was an incentive for traders to resume accumulation of the stock. The market also imparted a more cheerful tone to the sentiment, although bond trading clearly revealed movements.

In nearly all the French obligations, proving outlook for an early debt funding agreement, all street Italian pact, which was not announced until after the close of the market, holding that it would hearten the French and their efforts toward a settlement and also at that time great significance to reports that informal discussions between the American and French representatives were progressing favorably. The quick sale of a $30,000,000 American bond.

Indications that the Van Sweringen had started active work on framing a new Nickel Plate merger plan and that developments in the Southwestern field were slowly taking form injected new life into the carrier lines. Gains of 1 to 4 points were recorded by Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, Big Four & East-Grand & Hudson 5s, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, Illinois Central refunding 5s, Norfolk & Western western second 4s and Pacific 5s. Belief that the new officials of the transfer commission will speed plans for reconstruction and the realignment of present systems was interest in the local railway issues. Interborough Third Avenue and New York City railways bonds moved up 1 to 3 points.

New bond offerings tomorrow will include $2,500,000 Canadian National railway one year 6 per cent notes priced at 99.55, and $2,000,000 Consolidated Laundries Corporation ten-year convertible 6 1/2 per cent notes.

A Raw, Sore Throat

Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Mustrale
Mustrale won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Spread it on with your fingers. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain.
Mustrale is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest. Keep it handy for instant use.
To Mothers: Mustrale is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Mustrale.

GREAT MYSTERY AND ADVENTURE SERIES

The Complete Novel in Daily Picture Installments

By Sir Walter Scott

Continuity by Ruth J. Williams; Pictured by Nicholas Afanasy

The banquet was interrupted by a poor Jew, Isaac of York, who begged and was given food and shelter.

During the comotion no one noticed Cedric's thrall start on seeing the pilgrim. It was Ivanhoe in disguise!

RUSSO-GERMAN TREATY

CALLED STEP TO PEACE

Will Parallel and Supplement
Locarno Pacts, Berlin Authorities Say.

NO CLASH WITH LEAGUE

Berlin, April 21 (By A. P.).—The treaty which Russia and Germany have been negotiating since December, 1924, represents an important step in safeguarding the peace of Europe and does not represent an alliance between the two countries, it was said here today in authoritative quarters.

The German foreign office, it was said, has rejected all suggestions for binding Germany to the east with detriment to her relations with the west, and has sought to draw a treaty that will parallel and complement the Locarno pacts. The treaty, which now is nearing completion, does not conflict in any way with the Locarno and League of Nations regulations, according to government circles.

Russia, in Germany's view, realizes that she cannot develop without the aid of western capitalism, hence the flirtations with American capital and the desire to discuss the czarist debt with France. In the opinion of Germany's leading statesmen, everything should be done to strengthen this Russian desire to strengthen ties with the west, since it is by this accord that Russia's gradual evolution from communism may be hastened.

There is considerable resentment in Western circles at the reports that Foreign Minister Benes, of Czechoslovakia, has voiced suspicion that Germany will be obliged to report to Moscow all confidential negotiations with other powers and the League of Nations affecting the interests of both. This is regarded as nothing short of an affront.

Negro History Night

Is Held by Baptists

"Negro history night" was celebrated by the District Baptist Young People's union, auxiliary to the general Baptist convention, meeting last night in the auditorium of the Florida Avenue Baptist church. The address of welcome was made by Mrs. Carrie McCall, and responded to by J. E. Washington. Quotations from negro authors and composers were given by the congregation.

J. V. Pace, director of religious education of the general convention, discussed "Negro Achievement in B. Y. P. U. Work." Dr. Carter G. Woodson, editor of the Journal of Negro History, spoke on the importance of conserving traditions of the past. A song service was conducted by E. N. Briandax, and devotional by the Rev. W. A. Taylor and the Rev. J. E. Burke.

Virgin Islands Critic

Of U. S. Is Convicted

St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, April 21 (By A. P.).—Francis, negro editor of the emancipator, a newspaper, who has been a strong critic of the present government in the Virgin Islands, has been convicted and sentenced to one year on a charge of embezzlement. He will appeal.

Rothschild Francis in 1924 published criticism of the police and federal court of the Virgin Islands as a result of a street fight in St. Thomas. He was sentenced to 30 days' imprisonment and $100 fine for contempt of court and 30 days for libel on a policeman. He appealed.

In 1925 the circuit court at Philadelphia, which heard the appeal, affirmed the contempt sentence but set aside the libel sentence.

Riffian Armistice

Parley Disagrees

El Alouan, French Morocco, April 21 (By A. P.).—The representatives of France and Spain and the Rifis failed to agree on the armistice terms at their conference here this afternoon, and the sitting was adjourned indefinitely. Meantime, the delegates will consult their respective governments.

The discussion today was devoted largely to consideration of the exchange of prisoners. The Rifians were prepared to make concessions, provided the allies yielded on the occupation of further territory.

Miss Booth Out of Danger.

Chicago, April 21 (By A. P.).—Evangeline Booth, national commander of the Salvation army, who suffered an attack of appendicitis yesterday, was reported out of danger tonight by her physicians, who said an operation would not be necessary. She came to Chicago to attend the territorial congress of the army.

WAN CASE WITNESS FAVORS DEFENDANT IN HIS TESTIMONY

Colored Bell-Boy Says Chinese Returned to Hotel at 11:30 Night of Murder.

EVIDENCE "DEADLINE" ANNOUNCED BY COURT

Horning Will Read Part of Maj. Pullman's Statement on Stand Today.

Robert Lee Carter, colored, former bellboy at the Harris hotel, was the principal witness yesterday at the Wan murder trial. He was called by the government, but his testimony was largely in favor of the defense.

Carter said that Ziang Sun Wan, the defendant, and his brother, Van, returned to the Harris hotel "around" 11:30 o'clock the night the triple murder was committed in the Chinese Educational mission. Wilton J. Lambert, chief counsel for Wan, declared in his opening statement Tuesday that he expected to prove that Dr. T. T. Wong, one of the murder victims, did not reach the mission house until a little before or a little after 11 o'clock the night of the crime. His argument is that Wan could not have been there at the time of the murder and have reached the Harris hotel so soon.

Charged in One Slaying.

Wan is specifically charged with killing one of the victims of the triple murder, Ben Sen Wu. The bodies of Wu and C. H. Hsieh were found in the basement of the mission house, and that of Dr. Wong near the reception room. Justice Adolph Hoehling established a "deadline" for the testimony in the case yesterday. He ruled that no testimony could be given bearing on statements made by Wan after the Chinese had stated that he wanted to be freed. When Wan was found in New York, the day following the discovery of the triple murder, he voluntarily accompanied the detectives to this city.

Interviewed by Pullman.

Wan indicated that he wanted to be freed while he was being interviewed by Maj. Raymond Pullman, who was the superintendent of police. Maj. Pullman died after the first trial of Wan. Assistant United States Attorney George D. Horning, Jr., will read part of Maj. Pullman's testimony when the trial resumed this morning. Justice Hoehling will decide at what point the reading shall stop.

Proposal to Amend Zoning Law at Hearing

A double proposal to amend the zoning code to permit community houses, three in row, to be built in A restricted area and to create a new property classification to be known as AA restricted area, where neither community nor semi-detached houses will be permitted, will be discussed, together with nineteen proposals for rezoning, at an all-day public hearing by the zoning commission today in the District building.

It is said to be the view of those supporting the amendments that virtually all property now zoned A restricted, should be given the new classification and that any proposals for letting in community houses should be brought forward subsequently as applications for change of zoning.

Men in Coupe Steal Dog, Officer Reports

Lieut. Richard W. Gruelick, of 404 Walsh street, Chevy Chase, Md., naval intelligence officer, reported to the police that an Alfrede dog belonging to him had been stolen from in front of his residence yesterday morning by two men in a small coupe. The dog was taken into their car and drove rapidly in the direction of Washington.

The dog is about three months old and answers to the name of Duke. It comes from a good lineage and is especially valuable because of its friendly nature and the natural attachment a family has for a puppy, Lieut. Gruelick said last night.

Woman Takes Poison In Beauty Parlor

After swallowing several poison tablets yesterday a young woman giving her name as Agnes Hayes, of 10 I street northwest, fell unconscious to the floor of the beauty parlor at Twelfth and H streets northwest. She was taken to Emergency hospital and treated. She is expected to recover. She refused to tell how she came to swallow the poison.

Forestry Protection Urged in Address

Preservation of the timber lands of the country and the prevention of fire in the forests, were stressed by Paul G. Reddington, of the forest service of the Department of Agriculture, in speaking to the Rotary club in the Willard hotel yesterday on forestry week.

Reddington stated that there are an average of 47,000 forest fires a year, destroying over 14,000,000 acres of timber. Mr. Reddington pointed out that timber was being destroyed for building purposes at the rate of four times as much each year than is grown. Announcement was made that the annual election of officers will be held in the Willard hotel next Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock. No luncheon meeting will be held next week.

GEORGETOWN CADETS MAKE GOOD SHOWING

Army Inspectors See University R. O. T. C. Pass in Annual Review.

OFFICERS COMPLIMENTED

Under ideal weather conditions, the Georgetown University R. O. T. C. battalion, commanded by Capt. Lieut. Col. Anthony J. Brennan, passed in annual review before visiting inspectors of the army yesterday afternoon and President Charles W. Lyons, S. J. With cadet officers and noncommissioned officers wearing their new regulation uniforms with roll collars, the unit of four companies, headed by the cadet band, made one of its best showings in recent years.

Maj. Albert M. Danford and Maj. Thompson Lawrence, who made the inspection, complimented the Georgetown authorities on the performance of the cadets in close order and extended formation, athletic drill and the condition of equipment. After several hours of strenuous work on the parade ground, Company A, commanded by Cadet Capt. Frank P. Bowen, was ordered to march to the hills behind the college for a skirmish problem.

The Georgetown unit was particularly effective in its machine gun work and in the firing of howitzers and the 37 mm. guns, and a large crowd attracted by the firing, came to the field. Earlier in the day the army officers inspected the equipment and facilities of the school and gave theoretical examinations in military subjects. Today they visit the medical school unit for the final inspection.

Lieut. Col. Augustus F. Danne-miller, commandant at Georgetown, was particularly pleased with the showing of the cadet battalion, the members of which are hoping that the results of yesterday's work will land their battalion in the "distinguished" list of R. O. T. C. units of the Third corps area.

The four Georgetown companies are commanded as follows: Company A, Capt. Bowen; company B, Capt. R. H. Brown; company C, Capt. J. E. Wise, and company D, Capt. J. E. Madden.

Maj. Leo Breslin is executive officer of the unit; First Lieut. J. W. Madden, battalion adjutant; First Lieut. J. J. Conklin, intelligence officer; First Lieut. G. M. Doyle, platoon officer; and First Lieut. C. G. Ferrall, supply officer, and S. M. McKenzie, drum major of the band.

PALESTINE APPEAL OPENS HERE TONIGHT

Washington to Be Asked to Raise $50,000 for Homeland Fund.

Leaders in the national $500,000 United Palestine Appeal will address Washington Jews tonight, starting the local campaign for the $50,000 quota.

Rabbi Nathan Milenkowsky, of Palestine, pioneer Zionist, who has traveled 500,000 miles in the last 27 years advocating Jewish homeland, will describe what has been done in the rehabilitation of the Holy Land and point out the need for carrying on the work of building a Jewish state.

Dr. Israel Goldstein, of Temple B'nai Jeshurun, New York, one of the leaders in the reformed wing of the Palestine movement, will outline the progress of the campaign in other cities and urge Washington to raise its $50,000. Isidore Herzfeld, president of the District Zionist organization, will preside and call upon the workers in the drive to visit every Jewish home in Washington to solicit contributions.

Tomorrow morning 40 teams will begin two weeks of intensive campaigning under the generalship of Louis E. Spiegler and Mrs. John M. Sater.

International Law Society to Convene

The American Society of International Law will open its twentieth annual meeting at the New Willard hotel tomorrow evening. Charles Evans Hughes, president of the society, will open the meeting. After Mr. Hughes' opening address, Clement L. Bouye, of the bar of the District of Columbia, will read a paper on "The Right to Confiscate Alien Property."

The members will be received tomorrow by President Coolidge. Saturday evening the meeting will conclude with a dinner at the Willard. The guests of honor will be Vice President Dawes, the German Ambassador, the Minister of Uruguay and Prof. Archibald C. Coolidge, of Harvard university.

Jury Holds Deaths Of Two Accidental

A coroner's jury yesterday returned verdicts of accidental death after inquests held over two men who were killed in falls from buildings under construction.

The men were August Almuquist, 51 years old, of 3493 Holmead place northwest, who was killed when he stepped into an open elevator shaft while working on the new Hotel Harrington annex at Twelfth and E streets northwest, and Louis Jackson, colored, 25 years old, of 927 Goeden street southwest, who was killed when he fell from the seventh floor of the Carlton hotel, Sixteenth and K streets northwest.

NAVY EXPEDITION BRINGS 9,000 ANIMAL SPECIMENS

16-Foot Python Is Included in Collection Gathered in Sumatra.

WONDERS FOR ZOO HERE

Nine thousand specimens of reptiles, birds, insects, crustaceans, mollusks and mammals—living and dead—have been brought to Washington by Lieut. H. C. Kellers, medical corps, United States Navy, who has returned with the Naval Observatory expedition from Sumatra. Experts declare this represents the finest collection of biological material brought to this country from the Dutch East Indies in many years.

The Smithsonian institution becomes the possessor of the collection. A 16-foot python is included among the five animals brought here. Lieut. Kellers caught this reptile while it was in a dormant condition after feeding. He also captured another python measuring 22 feet, but it escaped from its pen at night and caused considerable damage among poultry yards before disappearing into the forest.

Among the 16 living birds brought to the Washington zoo are a pair of black-crested hornbills. Aside from their weird shriek, these birds are distinguished by their large and curiously shaped beaks. The Dracoe, a flying lizard, as beautifully colored as a butterfly, is another of Lieut. Kellers' captures. He also caught a coral fish off the island of Poeloeleus, 20 miles from Sumatra.

Six poisonous water snakes, a large collection of bats, and an insect haul numbering several thousand specimens, including the elephant beetle, the rhino beetle, various butterflies, flies and bugs are among other captures of the expedition. Lieut. Kellers is warmly in praise of the aid rendered the party by the Dutch authorities. Not only, he says, was each accredited scientific expedition given 1,000 guilders (about $175), but transportation by rail and automobile throughout the island was furnished free.

NEW UTILITIES BOARD MEASURE REPORTED

Provides for Three Members and People's Counsel, With $7,500 Salary.

A bill to create a new public utilities commission was favorably reported by the House District committee yesterday. Prepared by Chairman Zihlman, of the committee, the bill would provide for three members of the commission, and a people's counsel at a salary of $7,500 annually.

The committee also acted favorably upon a bill to license chiropractors, and another for the registration of milk bottles.

The section in the utilities bill which declared that it is the sense of Congress that lower fares be established, and that school children be given half fares, was stricken out. Representative Underhill, of Massachusetts, said such a provision was ridiculous.

Representative Frank Reid, of Illinois, sought to retain the children's half-fare provision. Representative Keller, of Minnesota, said that there will not be much improvement in the traction situation here until a merger is brought about.

Girls Friendly to Give Benefit for Home

The Girls' Friendly Society of Christ Episcopal church, 622 G street southeast, will hold an entertainment and dance tomorrow for the benefit of the Girls' Friendly Society, Holiday House, near Alexandria, Va.

The junior girls will give "The Deestrick Skule." Those taking part are William King, Martha Crouch, Mervale Bond, Ruth King, Ellen Elliott, Alice Elliott, Helen Burns, Vivian Watts, Louise Ryan and Barbara Alvey. The senior girls will give a translation of a French play, "Seeking a Servant." Those taking part are Mae Cross, Onelda Williams, Florence Caswell, Charlotte Hanson, Evelyn Koch, Katherine Ryan, Florence Vainwright, Edna Mundell, Mildred Meyer, Mildred Hoffman, Evis Jett and Thelma Kahler. W. Madison Taylor, tenor soloist of Yale chapel, New Haven, Conn., will sing between the shows. The Hartley Melody Boys will furnish music for the dance afterward.

Three Judgments Ordered.

Judgment by default against N. Musher, 2817 Connecticut avenue northwest, in three lawsuits demanding a total of $7,693.30 was ordered yesterday, by Justice Hitz, in circuit court. The plaintiffs are Alexander Cathcart, of St. Paul, Minn., who sued for $4,082 on a promissory note, and Adelaide C. Maxfield, also of St. Paul, who sued for $1,023 on a note, and A. C. Maxfield, also of St. Paul, who sued for $2,558.30 on a note. Attorneys Geiger and Schlobohm appeared for the plaintiffs.

Rockville Marriage Licenses.

Licenses have been issued by clerk of the circuit court in Rockville for the marriage of James Howard Call, 30, and Miss Ruth L. Goode, 30, of Washington, and Clement F. Faust, 33, and Miss Margaret A. Dernelle, 25, of Norfolk, Va.

Oulahan Leaves $17,800.

John K. Oulahan, who died February 10, left an estate valued at $17,800, according to the petition for letters of administration filed yesterday in probate court, by his brother, Richard V. Oulahan. The deceased left no will.

NONRESIDENT PUPILS SHOULD BE BARRED, SAYS SCHOOL BOARD

Education Body Holds District Children Should Be Cared For First.

PASSAGE OF MOTION OPPOSED BY GRAHAM

Hours of Attendance Changed to Become Effective Tomorrow.

District public schools should be barred to children of persons residing outside the District until such time as adequate school facilities have been provided for every District child, the board of education declared yesterday on motion of Charles F. Carusi.

The motion was adopted over the opposition of E. C. Graham, president of the board, which met in Franklin school. Mr. Graham warned board members that the District was dependent on the pleasure of members of Congress from Maryland and Virginia for its appropriations.

"We should be extremely cautious in proceeding in this matter," he urged. Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, pointed out that the District commissioners already had favored the bill pending in Congress for payment of tuition by out-of-town pupils, and a hearing had been held Tuesday night on the bill before the House committee. Mr. Graham also recited these facts and suggested postponement.

Mr. Carusi, however, would not agree, and he was supported by H. B. Learned. "It is a question of whether we shall evade or whether we shall meet this question squarely," Mr. Carusi declared.

Board Held Responsible.

"We have been held responsible for overcrowded schools, lack of this and lack of that," Mr. Learned said. "We have so many problems in providing for our District children that we should not take in outsiders, whether they pay money or not."

There are 3,000 pupils in the District schools from nearby Maryland and Virginia, Dr. Ballou said. It is estimated that it costs the District $300,000 a year for their schooling. Harry O. Hine, secretary to the board, said 1,200 of the out-of-town pupils are in junior and senior high schools.

Whether the public school day is to be made longer will be determined through an investigation by Dr. Ballou and a special board committee into the sentiment of pupils' parents. The question was raised by a letter from Walter C. Grey, secretary of the District Public Schools association, urging a longer school day and less home work.

Should Settle Question.

"We should settle this question definitely once and for all," Dr. Ballou declared in submitting the proposal to the board. "If it is the sentiment of the parents that the day be lengthened, that is agreeable to me. Appointment of a special investigating committee, proposed by Mr. Carusi, was approved by the board."

The board also voted to change the opening hour of the junior high schools from 8:30 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock, and to recess periods from 8 to 5 minutes. The closing hour will be 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The new hours will be put into effect tomorrow morning.

Amendment of existing fire regulations to permit installation of automobile repair training shops in high schools, and excepting these from the requirements for commercial garages was proposed by Dr. Ballou. He said that the school authorities seek a conference with the District Commissioners to determine whether steel fire curtains shall be installed in all high schools. Mr. Carusi took exception to the inference, in the general discussion, that the curtains were not needed. The Central high school stage often has much scenery on it and he was reluctant to oppose any safeguard. The fire marshal keeps about two years ahead of the ability of schools to conform to tighter and tighter regulations, it was complained.

Change of the name of the Rossell school, named after a former District commissioner, to the Woodridge school was proposed by J. F. Belfield, of the Rhode Island Citizens association, in a letter to the District commissioners referred to the board of education with the comment that they had no objection to the change unless the board had.

To Retire Teacher.

Fred S. Walker, president of the Park View Citizens association, asked the board not to retire Miss Frances Fairley, administrative principal of the Park View platoon school, when she reaches retirement age soon. He praised Miss Fairley highly.

The Rev. F. I. A. Bennett, chairman of the rules committee, proposed a new rule which would require all single women teachers to report to school authorities the fact of their marriage before the pay day next following it.

Rockville Marriage Licenses.

Licenses have been issued by clerk of the circuit court in Rockville for the marriage of James Howard Call, 30, and Miss Ruth L. Goode, 30, of Washington, and Clement F. Faust, 33, and Miss Margaret A. Dernelle, 25, of Norfolk, Va.

Oulahan Leaves $17,800.

John K. Oulahan, who died February 10, left an estate valued at $17,800, according to the petition for letters of administration filed yesterday in probate court, by his brother, Richard V. Oulahan. The deceased left no will.
